Mico Kaufman

Master at Work

By CHARLOTTE COOPER
And FRANK AMATO

Mico Kaufman, of Tewksbury puts the final touches on one of his creations in his studio. Mico's work will be on display at the Whistler House Museum in Lowell through May 31st. (Photo by Frank Amato)

It is not necessary to be an artist to appreciate the diverse talent of Mico Kaufman. His skillful abilities encompass metal and plastic sculptures as well as pen and ink drawings.

The word striking barely describes his display in the Parker Gallery at the Whistler House Museum of Art in Lowell. His sculptures range from intricately chiseled bronze designs to smooth, soft, flowing metal and polyethylene shapes. His pen and ink and pencil drawings capture emotions on canvas. Each piece represents an idea, a thought or an image, shaped into a sculpture or a drawing and captured forever.

Many admirers of Mico's work were present at the gala opening reception on April 30. The elaborate display of food, presented by Normita Snow Creeden of Tapas Corner, Beverly, in the reception area complimented Kaufmans diverse artwork. The table was beautifully decorated with baskets, flowers and a delicious array of foods, each unique in its own right and an interesting prelude to Kaufman's artwork.

The lobby entrance and Gallery were filled with people from Lowell, Tewksbury and other surrounding communities whoose careers include Health Physics, Journalism, and Environmental Engineering, but who have a mutual admiration for a man whose talents extend all the way to the White House.. Among his admirers was Guiding Hawk of the Mohawk Nation who presented a beautifully hand carved wooden walking stick to Mico. The stick, which was created by and presented in behalf of Chief Onkwe Tase, was a gift for the friendship that developed between

Benefit dinner

Who done it?

By SEAN DEVLIN

"Let me inform you of your rights," joked Selectman and Wilmington Police Sergeant James Rooney, at Monday's Selectmen Meeting, in response to the Friends of the Library's suggestion to host a murder-mystery dinner, during which, a selectman is "killed" and guests are given clues throughout the meal to solve the crime.

The group, which is still in the organizational stages, would hold these dinners, booksales, and other fundraisers to benefit the Wilmington Memorial Library and bolster memberships.

Temporary Chair of the Steering Committee Karen Campbell noted that Woburn's Friends of the Library chapter boasts 150 members, and would enjoy similar success in Wilmington.

"We're moving ahead quickly and we're all enthusiastic about it," added Campbell.

In conclusion, Campbell said that association intends to hold an organizational meeting on May 27.

The second issue addressed Monday evening, concerned the Kiwanis Club's proposal to donate a $20,000 playground to be constructed in the vicinity of Silver Lake.

The donation was originally propositioned at the last Selectmen's Meeting, but was met with opposition from some board members and Robert Palmer of the Department of Public Works.

Palmer cited the dangers of children playing on the structure that was, initially, to be built with pressure-treated wood. The wood has proven to be hazardous due to its arsenic content.

In addition, Palmer referred to the project as a "maintenance nightmare," suggesting that metal or plastic materials be used instead of the pressure-treated wood, which would require continual sanding and could possibly splinter.

Kiwanis member Richard Fudge stated that the club would be willing to amend its original proposal and use plastic and aluminum materials to construct the playground.

Palmer, satisfied with the Kiwanis' amendment, commented, "I'm just happy to see that everyone's on the same page now."

Town Manager Michael Caira approved of the compromise and agreed to commence construction of the Kiwanis playground on the Silver Lake site as soon as the club wishes.

Life-long Wilmington resident Gerry O'Reilly concluded, "It's a tremendous proposition. The beauty of the lake is gone. I'd like to see the little kids...have the memories I have (of the lake)."

Another topic discussed at the meeting regarded the existing fine used to enforce handicap parking violations.

The current fine, adopted in 1982, is a mere $10 for parking in handicap designated spaces without proper license plates or a placard.

Selectman Michael McCoy recommended that Wilmington become consistent with Burlington and Billerica , both of which impose $100 fines for violations.

George O'Connell, of Wilmington's Commission on Disabilities, felt as though the outdated fine does not act as an effective deterrent.

"Ultimately, we'd like to see no tickets issued. I just don't think a $10 ticket is enough to stop them from doing it," O'Connell speculated.

In response, the board unanimously voted to approve the fine hike for handicap parking

Local journalist shares Pulitzer

By CHARLOTTE COOPER

To be a journalist can be pretty exciting, but to be part of a team of journalists to win the Pulitzer Prize is the thrill of a lifetime. Tewksbury native Lauren Terrazzano was part of the team that received the most prestigious prize in journalism, the Pulitzer Prize for Distinguished Local Coverage in 1996, as a result of their efforts covering the Flight 800 tragedy.

It was no small effort to cover the story of Flight 800. "It was unlike any other story I've ever covered because of the sheer tragedy of the amount of lives lost," Terrazzano said. On the night of the tragedy, the Newsday staff happened to be dining in Queens. They were all dispatched to different places and Terrazzano was sent to the South Shore. Some of the roads to the shore in Moriches were blocked. She said that they parked the car and literally ran through backyards to get to the shore, where they watched the boats coming in with bodies and debris from the airplane.

"Part of the problem with covering a story like this is that there is no true scene," Terrazzano said. The center of activity was the Coast Guard Station but the actual crash site was 11 miles off the coast of Long Island. She and another reporter were fortunate enough to be let into the Coast Guard Station from which the recovery efforts were being initiated. They spent the first 24 hours in the Coast Guard Station interviewing and observing rescue and recovery workers. She said that it was also very difficult interviewing the families of the passengers because they were still in shock. Since that day, she has been

Officials discuss stadium plan

By CHARLOTTE COOPER

The Tewksbury and Wilmington Selectmen and state officials met at the Tewksbury Town Hall Tuesday evening to discuss an update of the proposal for developing a stadium that would bring the New England Patriots to this area.

"We have encountered some resistance with the project at a much higher level," Senator Bruce Tarr said. "Essentially the stumbling point of the project is the financing. We contacted the Pats and indicated our interest and that we had location that had appeal for a variety of reasons," Tarr said. The construction costs will run about $150 - 220 million but the Kraft organization is only willing to fund $75 to $78 million. "The problem is that while we have an ideal location, we certainly don't have the resources to complete the project as it stands," Tarr said. He indicated that the town budgets of both Tewksbury and Wilmington are not in a position to fund the project. Private funding would be considered but the only real alternative is to ask the State for funding. There is resistance to that idea as well. Tarr indicated that the State is reluctant to fund because of the risk of favoritism.

Representative Jim Miceli said that the survey he conducted during the Town Elections indicated that Tewksbury and Wilmington were basically TEWKSBURY - The third in a series of dances sponsored by T.H.E. Farm (Tewksbury Hospital Equestrian Farm) will be held Friday, May 16 from 7:30 p.m.

The series to day has been a resounding success, held from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m. at the Old Chapel on the grounds of Tewksbury Hospital. Entertainment is provided by Brad Surrette and country dance lessons are available for all.

"The dance held last Friday was well attended and a lot of fun," said Mary Jane Marcucci,volunteer at T.H.E. Farm, "next Friday's dance promises to be even better as we continue to raise money for a worthy cause."

It's YOUR Money

SHOULD YOU PREPAY YOUR MORTGAGE?

It doesn't take much extra cash, added to your monthly mortgage payment, to save you thousands of dollars. Those prepayments of principal have been likened to tax-free investments that pay you at the same rate that the mortgage lender is charging you.

It's not just that the mortgage will be paid off sooner; the results show up right away. For instance, monthly payments on a $100,000 loan at 8 percent interest would be $733.77. Of the first payment $666.67 is interest, $67.10 is applied against the principal and the borrower still owes $99,932.90. Add $50 to the payment, and the loan balance drops to $99,882.90. That means less of the next payment goes for interest, more for paying off the principal. Benefits multiply with each prepayment.

Check with your lender to find out how the prepayment should be made and to make certain there are no prepayment penalties, which are found increasingly in adjustable-rate mortgages.

Smart money management builds your net worth. You'll always get good advice from the professionals at

Letters to the editor

'One man crew'

Dear Larz:

On behalf of the residents of Reed Street and Harold Avenue we would like to thank Bob Palmer (Highway Department) and his "one man crew" for removing the branches from our streets.

We know that this became an overwhelming job for the Highway Department and that it was hard to keep up with the daily duties of keeping the town looking good. It was a tedious, back breaking job that has not gone unappreciated. Again, thank you.

MWRA thanks Miceli

WILMINGTON - The following is a letter to Rep. James Miceli from the Mass. Water Resources Authority:

Dear Rep. Miceli:

On behalf of the Mass. Water Resources Authority (MWRA), I want to thank you for your leadership and continued support for MWRA and its ratepayers. The House of Representatives' FY 98 state budget included, for the second consecutive year, rate relief for both water and sewer ratepayers. The House appropriated $50.7 million to the Commonwealth Sewer Rate Relief Fund to provide statewide sewer debt service assistance. Of this amount, MWRA is expected to be eligible to receive close to $39.93 million for sewer dept in FY 98. In addition, an amendment sponsored by the MWRA legislative caucus was accepted extending debt service to include the MetroWest Water Supply Tunnel. Adoption of this amendment and concurrence by the Senate, would provide $1.9 million in FY 98 to help support this major project for a backup water transmission capability for the existing Hultman Aqueduct.

Please find enclosed the estimated impact the $39.93 million in rate relief will have on the FY 98 sewer charges and the $1.9 million will have on water charges upon enactment.

We look forward to continuing to work with you on rate relief efforts for MWRA ratepayers.

sincerely,
Douglas B. MacDonald
Executive Director

Food pantry donations

Dear Larz:

National Letter Carriers Association Food Collection Visitors to the recent open house at the Tewksbury Community Pantry saw shelves with just enough food to pack boxes for the May food distribution. The same visitors today would see shelves overflowing with food and stacks of food in every available space.

Tewksbury residents gave generously to the annual collection of non-perishable food for pantries, kitchens, and food banks. In Tewksbury this food is delivered to the pantry by the letter carriers who deserve a huge thank you for the extra time and effort required.

The amount appeared to exceed last year's donations and is estimated at over 20 tons. Ken Batastine, Tewksbury Postal Supervisor, commented that the letter carriers move mountains of mail daily and on this special day they moved mountains of food.

Thanks to the enthusiasm of town residents, letter carriers and volunteers who received the food, there will be enough food to ensure the distribution of monthly allotments for Tewksbury families and individuals needing assistance during the summer months.

Sincerely,
Jean M. Holmes,
President
Tewksbury Community
Food Pantry

Grand job for seniors

Dear Larz:

Boy have we got it made, but you see most of us are pretty nice people. Dollar lunches, trips to the Elks, a beautiful senior center with all those crafts and classes. Don't forget the pool room.

Oh, yes, the bulge reducer class, sorry, I mean the whirlers and stompers, sorry I mean the exercise people. They look as though they are having a great time. I hear the custodian has to clean up a lot of calories off the floor when they are through.

Look at all the transportation given to those who have no other means of going shopping and many other places.

Edie and her staff deserve a big hand for the grand job they are doing with the funds they get.

We also should give the whole town a great big thanks for taking such care of us seniors.

We are just slowing down a bit and need a little help to keep our engines going.

Reginald Bishop, Sr.

Tewksbury Senior Center

'Tree of Life' fund raiser

By BOB CARROLL

TEWKSBURY - The Friends of the Elderly have kicked of a "Tree of Life" fund raiser to make repairs on and expand the Senior Center.

The group's goal, said the center's director, Linda Brabant, is to raise about $100,000. Brabant said the center originally planned to ask the town to budget the money. However, "We decided to try and raise the money ourselves, first," said Brabant.

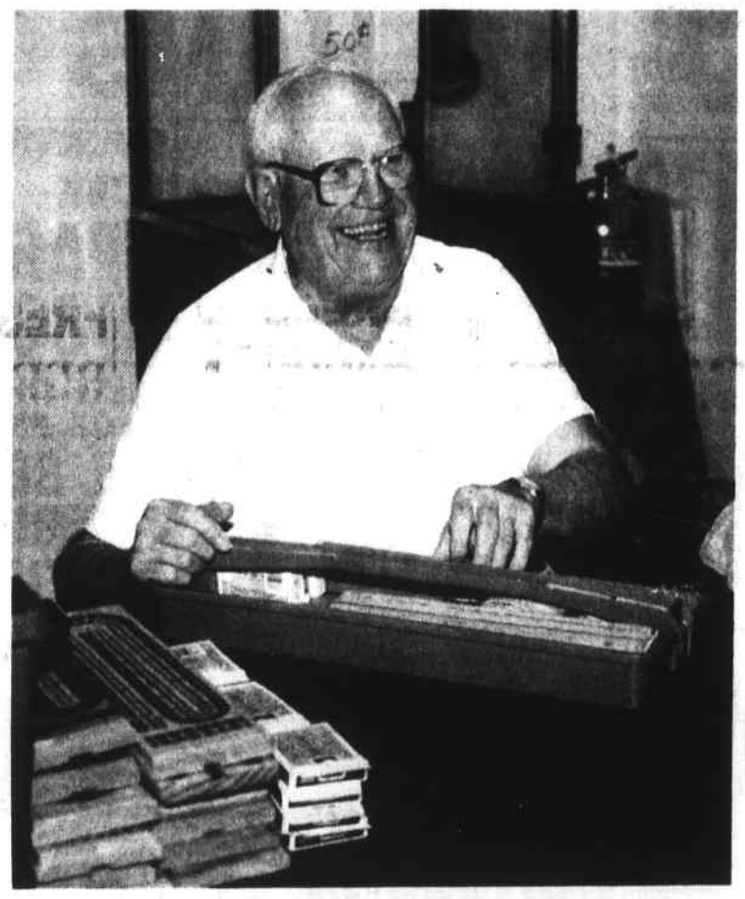

The center has a dangerous situation every winter near the kitchen entrance, because a "V" section of the roof throws snow and rain onto the walkway, leaving the walkway to freeze over with ice. said Brabant.

No matter what remedial action was taken, said Brabant, including removing and later putting back gutters, the ice built up on the walk way.

The center also needs much more space, observed Brabant. A new 20 by 45 foot addition to the building would solve the ice problem and provide a kitchen big enough to manage the center's activities, said Brabant.

Brabant noted that the center does much of its own catering, so new stoves and a walk-in refrigerator are needed to accommodate the center's functions.

The "Tree of Life" is to be a stylized model of a tree, in relief, made of acrylic trunk and leaves of various metals. Donors can purchase an aluminum leaf for $50, copper leaves for $100 each, and brass leaves for $250 each. Donors may decide what is to be engraved on their leaves.

Norm DeMarais sets up the Senior Center cribbage game held each Wednesday starting at 1 p.m. DeMarais said 48 to 60 people play each Wednesday.

Bronze "Stones" are to be placed in relief around the roots of the tree can be purchased for $500 to $2,500. The stones can also be engraved according to each donor's wishes.

The "Tree of Life" is to be unveiled at the center June 22 at a 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. reception open to the public.

The "Tree of Life" is to be placed on a prominent wall in the center, said Brabant, and will be moved to any new and larger facilities the Center may acquire, promised Brabant.

The Tewksbury Town Crier is donating $5 per each new subscription to the Center's renovation and expansion project. To order a subscription call 658-2346 or mail $20.00 for a one year subscription to: Town Crier, P.O. Box 939, Wilmington, mA 01887. Please include your mailing address.

For more information, call the center at 508-640-4480, or telephone head of the fund raiser, Mary Ann Wareham at 508-851-3344.

War on mosquitos underway

The Central Mass. Mosquito Control Project (CMMCP) has been treating areas throughout the community where mosquito larvae are found. This larviciding of breeding sites will continue throughout the summer months, as will the water management programs.

Warming temperatures coupled with standing water from last winter's snow and spring rains has resulted in the season's first emergency of adult mosquitoes. The CMMCP is prepared to begin limited adult mosquito spraying.

The ultra low volume spray operations will be conducted in residential and recreational areas where heavy mosquito populations are found. The spraying is usually done during the evening hours utilizing hand held or truck mounted sprayers. Please inform us of an outdoor functions that will be taking place in the community. Listed below are the dates CMMCP is planning to be in this community during the months of May and June: May 29, June 4, 11, 12, 18, 25 and 26.

These dates are subject to change due to inclement weather and/or high mosquito populations.

Anyone who wishes to have their property excluded from spraying should notify the town clerk and the CMMCP.

The goal is to reduce the need for adult mosquito spraying. The increased emphasis on larviciding, water management and public education will continue.

Oasis of beauty

Dear Larz:

In an otherwise boring, colorless, and often downright ugly stretch of commercial property on Route 38, there is an oasis of beauty: the area in front of Wilmington Builders' Supply. The dense planting of red and white tulips and the graceful flowering trees are a delight for winter-weary eyes. Those who pass by need only to gaze on this beautifully designed and well tended "garden: to experience a lifting of the spirit.

I would like to thank the folks at Wilmington Builders' Supply for their efforts to beautify Wilmington.

Sincerely,
Maureen Rounds

OWI's: How many and how often?

By FRANK J. AMATO

How widespread is OWI?

While not all of those who drive after drinking have a BAC of 0.10 or more, the presumptive or illegal per se limit for OWI in most states, many drivers do have BACs in excess of .10.

A frequently quoted, and often misrepresented, statistic places the average incidence of OWI at one driver in 10. Averaged across all hours of the day and all days of the week, two percent of the drivers on the road are OWI. That one in 50 figure is offered as evidence that a relatively small segment of America's drivers - the so-called "problem" group account for the majority of traffic deaths. There's nothing wrong with that figure as a statistical average, but police officers know that at certain times and places many more than two percent of drivers are under the influence of alcohol. National Highway Traffic Safety Administration research suggests that during the late night, weekend hours, as many as 10 percent of drivers on the roads may be OWI. On certain holiday weekends, and at other especially critical times, the figure may go even higher.

How many? How often?

The issue of how many DWIs are on the road at any given time is an important factor in measuring the magnitude of the problem. However, from an overall traffic safety perspective, the more important issue may be the number of drivers who ever commit OWI. Just how widespread is this violation? In enforcement terms, how many people do we need to deter?

Clearly, it is more than one in 50. Although it may be true that, on the average, two percent of drivers are OWI at any given time, it certainly is not the same two percent every time. It is even more than one in 10. Surely not everyone who commits OWI is out on the road, under the influence every Friday and Saturday night. Some of them, at least, must skip an occasional weekend. Thus, the 10 percent who show up, weekend after weekend, in the Friday and Saturday statistics must come from a larger pool of violators, each of whom "contributes" to the statistics on some nights, but not necessarily all nights. The 10 percent are the tip of a larger - possibly much larger iceberg.

Introduction

An understanding of drinking and driving laws that apply in your jurisdiction is critical to OWI enforcement.

All states (and many local jurisdictions) have their own drinking and driving laws. While the specific language of these laws may vary significantly, most include the following provisions:

* a Basic OWI Law;
* an Implied Consent Law;
* an Illegal Per Se Law;
* a Preliminary Breath Testing Law.

In the following pages these four types of drinking and driving laws are discussed in d detail. The illustrations provided are drawn from the Uniform Vehicle Code. You are responsible for learning whether and how each law applies in your jurisdiction. Worksheets are provided to guide you in learning about the specifics of your laws.

Basic OWI Law

A state's basic OWI statute may be subtitled Driving While Under the Influence, or something similar. Typically the statute described the who, what, where and how of the offense in language like this: It is unlawful for any person to operate or be in actual physical control of any vehicle within this state while under the influence of alcohol and/or any drug.

Arrest

In order to arrest someone for a basic OWI violation, a law enforcement officer must have probable cause to believe that all elements of the offense are present. That is, the office must have probable cause to believe that:

* the person in question
* was operating or in actual physical control of
* a vehicle (truck, van, automobile, motorcycle, even bicycle, according to specific provisions in various states)
* while under the influence of alcohol, another drug, or both.

Note: in some states it is unlawful to operate a vehicle while under the influence anywhere in the state: on or off roadways, on private property, and so on. In other states, the law applies only on publicly accessible roadways.

Implied consent law

Description

The question of how much impairment in the ability to operate a vehicle will equate with driving while under the influence is not completely clear. Some course have held that the slightest degree of impairment to the ability to drive means the driver is "under the influence." Other courts have held that there must be evidence of substantial impairment to the ability to drive before OWI conviction is warranted. Therefore proving that a driver was "under the influence" has been (and continues to be) difficult.

Any person who operates a motor vehicle upon the public highways of this state shall be deemed to have given consent to a chemical test for the purpose of determining the alcohol and/or drug content of blood when arrested for any acts alleged to have been committee while the person was operating or in actual physical control of a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol and/or any drug.

The Implied Consent Law usually provides the driver with the statutory option to refuse the test. However, this option of refusal is not an unlimited right. The law also provides that the individual's driver's license may be suspended or revoked if the refusal is found to be unreasonable. Including a provision for license suspension or revocation is a means of encouraging those arrested for OWI to submit to the test so that valuable chemical evidence may be obtained.

Horizontal gaze nystagmus test

"Nystagmus" means an involuntary jerking of the eyes. Horizontal gaze nystagmus (HGN) refers to an involuntary jerking that occurs as the eyes gaze toward the side. In addition to being involuntary, the jerking is also unconscious. The person experiencing the nystagums ordinarily is unaware that the jerking is happening, and is powerless to stop or control it.

Under the influence of alcohol or certain other drugs, the involuntary jerking of the eyes becomes much more distinct, and readily noticeable. And, as a person's blood alcohol concentration increases, the eyes will begin to jerk sooner as they move to the side.

Horizontal gaze nystagmus is a very reliable field sobriety test. Especially when used in combination with the divided attention tests, it will help police officers correctly distinguish suspects who are under the influence of alcohol from those who are not.

Prior to administration of HGN, the eyes are checked for equal tracking ability (can they follow an object together) and equal pupil size. If the eyes do not track together, or if the pupils are noticeable unequal in size, the chance of medical disorders or injure is causing the nystagmus is present.

When the HGN test is administered, each eye is checked separately, always beginning with the subject's left eye. Each eye is examined for three specific clues

* As the eye moves from side to side, does it move smoothly or does it jerk noticeably? (As people become under the influence of alcohol, their eyes exhibit a lack of smooth pursuit as they move from side to side.)
* When the eye moves as far to the side a possible and is kept at that position for several seconds, does it jerk distinctly? (Distinct nystagmus at maximum deviation of the eye is another clue of alcohol influence.)
* As the eye moves toward the side, does it start to jerk before it has moved through a 45 degree angle? (On-set of nystagmus prior to 45 degrees is another clue of alcohol influence)

As a person's blood alcohol concentration increases, the more likely it is that these clues will appear.

The maximum number of clues that may appear in one eye is three. The maximum total number for any suspect is six. Research shows that if four or more clues are evident, it is

DO YOU NEED MORTGAGE PROTECTION?

If you have a mortgage on your home, you have probably received several offers from insurance companies for coverage to pay off your mortgage if you die accidently. Insurance is a good idea in most cases, however mortgage insurance is usually a poor value.

If you read the large print, it looks like the policy will protect your family if you die before the mortgage is paid off. All you have to do is fill out the paperwork, have a physical exam, and pay a little more each month. The fine print, however, may limit the coverage to accidental death. If there are two people on the deed of trust, the policy may pay only half if one of them dies. If you are considering mortgage insurance, call a good insurance agent before you send in your forms. Insurance experts usually advise against separate policies to cover various contingencies. A regular term life insurance policy equal to the amount of your mortgage will probably offer you a lot more coverage for your money.

Is Your Home Physically Fit?

Most people take better care of their car than they do the home they live in. According to a survey by the American Society of Home Inspectors (ASHI), the leading association for the home inspection profession in the U.S. and Canada, "poor overall maintenance" was rated one of the top five problems most frequently found during home buyers' pre-purchase inspections.

Yet just as cars need regular oil changes and tune-ups to run smoothly and prevent major engine problems, so do houses need periodic preventive maintenance.

Regular preventive maintenance preserves the structural and mechanical systems of the home, as well as its general cosmetic appearance, say the home inspectors. It can also greatly reduce the cost of repairs. They report that many home owners end up hiring contractors to perform major and costly repairs for problems that could easily have been avoided through preventive maintenance.

Keeping the home in good physical condition also enhances its financial value as an investment. Real estate agents agree that well-maintained homes sell more quickly and at higher prices than poorly maintained ones.

Where To Begin

One of the obstacles to regular maintenance for many home owners is the task of figuring out what needs to be done. If you have a wet basement or a leaky roof, for example, you know that something needs to be done, but there might be several alternatives. Do you buy an expensive waterproofing system or do you simply fix the gutters? Do you buy a new roof, or merely install better chimney flashing?

Other conditions are not always so obvious. Overloaded circuits might be slowly heating up the wiring and building a potential fire hazard. Galvanized steel pipes, corroded with age, might be serviceable today but cause a plumbing nightmare just down the road. Yet if symptoms such as these aren't readily apparent, how do you know you even have a problem?

Get Professional Advise

When the list of maintenance options becomes confusing, or when you don't know where to begin, it's time to call in a professional home inspector, advises Ron Passaro, a spokesperson for the home inspectors' association. Trained and experienced in the visual examination and evaluation of the condition of a home, the inspector can help a home owner focus attention on the tasks that need to be performed in order to bring a home into top physical condition.

While examining the attic, for example, an inspector might detect subtle evidence of water penetration through the roof. Allowing for the age and condition of the roofing material, he would then be able to recommend either the installation of a new roof or perhaps some simple flashing repairs. In either case, serious water damage to the house can be avoided.

Similarly, an inspector's recommendation to install a power vent in the attic ($150-$200) in order to reduce the heat load might well double the lifespan of a shingle roof ($2000-$3000).

If a home has aluminum wiring, periodic preventive maintenance inspections are essential. The condition of wire connections at outlets and switches must be monitored so that corrective measures can be taken if necessary. An inspector will note plumbing leaks and aging water heaters and indicate whether there is a need for repair or replacement to prevent failure or flooding. Improperly graded soil around the house, or defective gutters, the most common causes of water in the basement/cellar, would also be marked for correction.

Be Realistic

Passaro cautions home owners not to attempt to do all the maintenance chores themselves, especially items like electrical or roof top work. "Today, with our busy lifestyles, it is important to be realistic about whether one has the time, not to mention the ability and the tools, to perform all the necessary tasks.

"I recommend that individuals first decide what they think they can accomplish themselves and then hire professional contractors to do the rest. This is the most efficient way of ensuring that preventive maintenance is actually carried out."

How often should a comprehensive maintenance inspection be performed? ASHI recommends a schedule of once every two to five years to keep a home in good physical condition. Individual house components, such as heating, air conditioning, and septic systems for example, require annual or semiannual inspections and servicing by qualified tradesmen or service technicians.

How To Ensure Quality

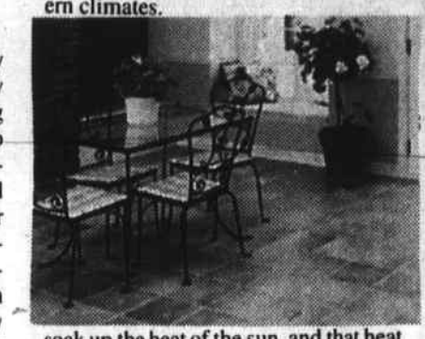

Now is the time of year when many families think about building a new home. If you're buying an existing home, there's not much you can do to ensure the utmost in quality. If building a new home, however, you should spend important time with your builder to review everything you require so your investment is constructed the way you want it – with superior craftsmanship and quality products. A good rule of thumb is to review with your builder all of the products to be used in your new home. Look for ones with quality seals such as that of the National Association of Homebuilders (NAHB) Research Center or the Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval. They mean those products have been tested by independent third parties for quality assurance.

Also ask your builder about the trade contractors who will be constructing your home to make sure they are quality craftsmen with strong credentials. For instance, some products like insulation must be installed correctly or they will not perform to their optimum potential. Yet as a homeowner, it's hard to know if this material is put in properly because you cannot see it. What's a good solution? Ask that a certified insulation contractor insulate your new home. Some insulation contractors today have become certified through a unique program available from the National Association of Home Builders Research Center. This program, developed in conjunction with CertainTeed Corporation, helps contractors establish quality procedures for their offices as well as their installers. It involves an extensive insulation training program and audits at construction sites and the contractor's office. Only after these audits are passed, does the contractor receive a certificate of certification from the NAHB Research Center. And to ensure high quality is maintained year after year, the NAHB conducts periodic unannounced office and job site visits.

For more information on ensuring quality in your new home, write to the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482 or call 800 782 8777 for a free copy of a brochure on the certified contractor program.

Ceramic Tile Saves Energy

Ceramic tile's role as an energy saver is well documented. It saves both heating and air conditioning costs, so it's equally relevant in Northern and Southern climates.

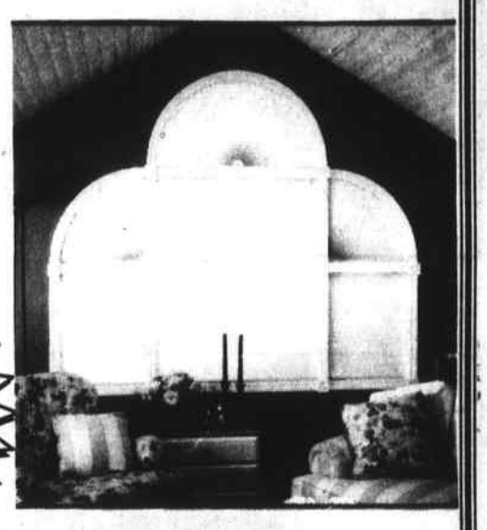

soak up the heat of the sun, and that heat is gradually released during the cooler evening hours, thus keeping the tiled room and even adjoining rooms cozy. On the other hand, the tiles will also absorb the cool night breezes of a cross-ventilated room, so the air conditioning system doesn't have to work so hard and perhaps can be shut down entirely.

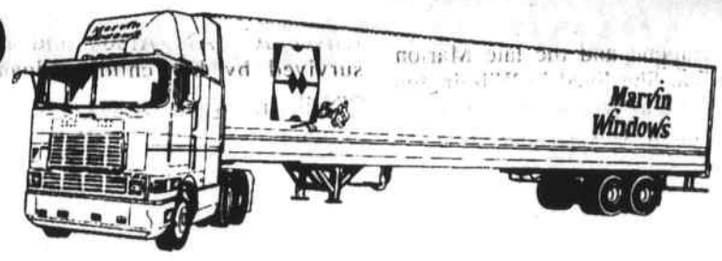

Tile's importance as an energy saver was first discovered during the energy crisis of the 70s, according to Summitville Tiles, a company widely recognized for its earth-friendly products and manufacturing processes. The discovery led to sun spaces obviously designed with energy savings in mind. They featured large glass expanses, heat-absorbing trombe walls, water-filled tanks, and "heat-sink" floors consisting of cement slabs and the heaviest tiles to be found.

But in time solar rooms became more conventional and eye-appealing sun rooms. Featuring large windows, patio doors and tile floors, the rooms are still energy-conscious, but as carefully designed as living rooms. Any quarry tile or porcelain paver works, so beautiful colors and designs can be used. The trombe walls and tanks are gone, but, more often than not, plants and potted trees still give these rooms a feeling of the outdoors.

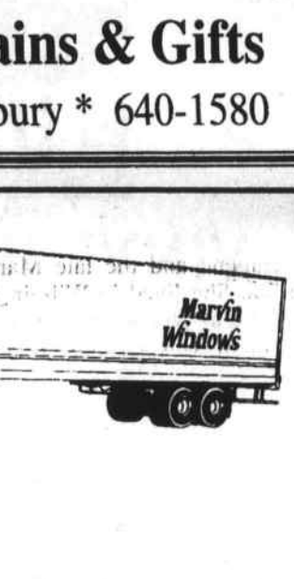

As if energy savings weren't enough of an incentive to put tile to work in the sun room, Summitville is now producing a line of pavers that uses a post-industrial waste product as its major ingredient. Normally this waste material would result in giant landfills in tile-producing states. In addition, this line is manufactured in a facility designed to be waste-free.

Three Ways to Make Your Home's Foyer Say 'Welcome'

Resilient flooring, like NAFCO's Quarry Craft Series "Custom Quarry," is both attractive and practical – an ideal choice for foyers.

Your foyer conveys to visitors the first impressions of your home and of you. It sends messages about your overall decorating theme as well as your attitude toward guests – perhaps formal and elegant for those who entertain often, or more casual and all-purpose for families with children.

No matter what your needs or the size of your home's entry, your foyer doesn't have to be a mish-mash of coats, shoes, briefcases and umbrellas. Some easy-to-do, practical and inexpensive approaches can really brighten up this often overlooked space:

How About New Flooring?

A fresh, new floor can make a huge difference in your foyer's appearance. And you don't have to spend a mint to get the look you want.

Resilient (vinyl) flooring, in tile or sheet form, complements almost any decorating style and offers fast, easy maintenance in this high-traffic area. It comes in such a wide range of styles that you're certain to find one that works for your home. For an elegant look, choose one of the new faux finishes — marble, granite, brick, or ceramic looks. For a more casual feel, try a bordered floral or a café-style checkerboard pattern.

The Resilient Floor Covering Institute (RFCI) recommends that you consider the scale of the floor design relative to the size of your foyer. In a small space, avoid large, busy patterns. Sheet vinyl patterns with a small design repeat work best. A bigger space allows more room to experiment. Alternating black/white tiles have a timeless style; open florals and geometrics also work well.

Contain Clutter

Is your entry a dumping ground for gym bags, books and assorted outerwear? Even if you don't have much space, you can probably use this area more efficiently. Make the most of closet space; buy a closet organizer or install hooks, drawers and shelves so that everything has a place. Other options to keep your entry neat: a tall, narrow wardrobe to stow coats, or a coat-tree in brass, cast iron, or wood. And don't dismiss the classic umbrella stand! It serves an important purpose and can be very attractive in porcelain or brass.

Consider Wall Treatments And Accessories

Again, you'll want to think about the size of the space and how best to accentuate it. A subtly patterned or textured wallcovering, or paint in a neutral earth tone, can open up and "warm" the space. Mirrors are a good way to "enlarge" a foyer. You can purchase inexpensive panels to hang on the wall, or a gold-framed mirror to rest on a table or small bureau.

Consoles, either bracketed to the wall or stand-alone, can make a great design statement in your entry – try one with a cast iron frame and a glass top, or opt for wood or even wicker. An antique dresser or table adds a homey, country touch. Accessorize your furniture with a small fabric-shaded lamp, silver or brass tray for mail and keys, moire tablecloth, or framed pictures.

Whatever options you choose, spiffing up this space will make it more efficient and organized for you and your family, as well as welcoming and warm for your friends and visitors.

Romancing The Bedroom

This Florence sleigh bed is the newest addition to Brown Jordan's popular Florentine collection.

Brown Jordan, known for quality outdoor furniture, brings the outdoors in with its new collection of wrought iron beds and accessories. Brown Jordan In Home is fueling the trend toward metal furniture, particularly for the bedroom.

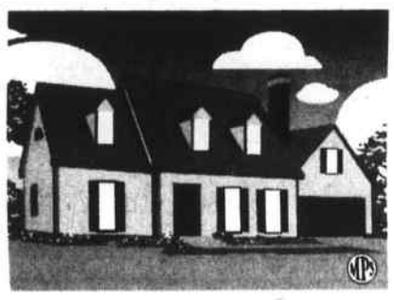

"A metal bed is a savvy furniture investment – it's that perfect, essential element that fits in with almost any style or taste," says Margaret Russell, design and decoration editor for Elle Decor magazine. "It's the best solution for pared-down, Modernist bedrooms, but even a spare, simple design can be layered with luxurious linens and mixed with antiques for a more traditional room. That's the basic beauty of a metal bed – it's a strong foundation that can easily be dressed a million different ways."

"One reason for the popularity of metal beds is their versatility," adds Brown Jordan designer Richard Frinier. "Metal can be shaped and curved in ways wood cannot. Another reason is that people are collecting individual showpieces instead of buying matching furniture."

The demand for modern, romantic beds is growing. "People want to build the room around a bed that makes a statement, in scale or design. Today's bedroom remains a private retreat, where choice is about comfort and personal expression," Frinier explains.

Seamless Siding

The concept of seamless gutters had people wondering. If rolls of coil could be formed into a gutter, could the coil be formed into siding as well?

Obviously, the answer was yes, and the industry has not been the same since ABC Seamless made the commitment to revolutionize the siding industry.

ABC Seamless set out to be the leader, the innovator, the ones always at the forefront of the industry, and the company everyone else tries to copy.

They did not want to be like the "normal" siding company, putting anywhere from 150-200 splices and seams on a home.

Home owners were ecstatic with the crisp, clean look of ABC Seamless. They did not understand how steel siding could be installed on a home without any laps or gaps everyone else was offering.

The uniqueness of seamless siding lies in the process of how it is manufactured.

ABC Seamless brings the siding factory right to your home. Each panel is measured, formed and cut to fit your home.

You will have the best of both worlds with ABC Seamless. You get the strength and stability of steel siding, plus you'll have a virtually maintenance free exterior. As the demand for seamless siding became stronger, ABC Seamless decided to become the first company ever to franchise the seamless method.

The first franchise was sold in 1978, and today ABC Seamless has more than 140 franchises in 38 states, making it the World's Largest Seamless Siding Company.

ABC Seamless steel siding has a protective polyvinyl chloride (PVC) coating with high quality resins that are baked onto the steel at temperatures of more than 600 degrees Fahrenheit.

The finish will give your home the freshly painted look year after year, without ever picking up a paint brush. You'll have more time to do the things you want to do! Whether retro-fit, new construction, or commercial projects, ABC Seamless steel siding will make your home or business look great.

Hammer, Screwdriver, Sander And ... Salt?!?

As you're gearing up to make spring home improvements, your battery of tools probably doesn't include salt. If it doesn't, and your home has hard water, you could be overlooking a very smart home improvement – the installation of a water softener.

Hard Water Is Hard On The Wallet

Hard water can be very tough on appliances, plumbing fixtures and, consequently, your pocketbook.

Its presence is easy to detect. Hard water forms a white, tough-to-remove layer of hardness minerals and soap scum that you see on bathtubs, sinks, shower walls and faucets. What you don't see is the layers of scale building in your pipes and water-using appliances. This buildup results in appliance inefficiency and can cause premature maintenance problems. Hard water also interferes with the cleaning ability of soaps and detergents, requiring greater amounts of detergent when cleaning.

A household water softener will remove the hardness minerals, leading to easier cleaning of fixtures, tubs and tiles, less wear and tear on water-using appliances, and reduced use of cleaning agents.

Hardware For Your Hard Water

Some water utilities soften their water supply, but only enough to meet the federal government's standard of "moderately hard" water. Even moderately hard water can cause reduced water flow from faucets, inefficient water heater and appliance operations, and soap residue on bath fixtures. Home water softeners soften water to a greater degree.

Water softeners remove "hard" calcium and magnesium ions by forcing water through a resin bed. The hardness ions are replaced with "softer" sodium ions in the resin bed. When a water softener's hardness-removing capability is low, it must be regenerated. This is accomplished by flushing a brine solution, essentially dissolved salt, through the resin bed. Collected calcium and magnesium ions are washed off the resin and replaced with sodium ions.

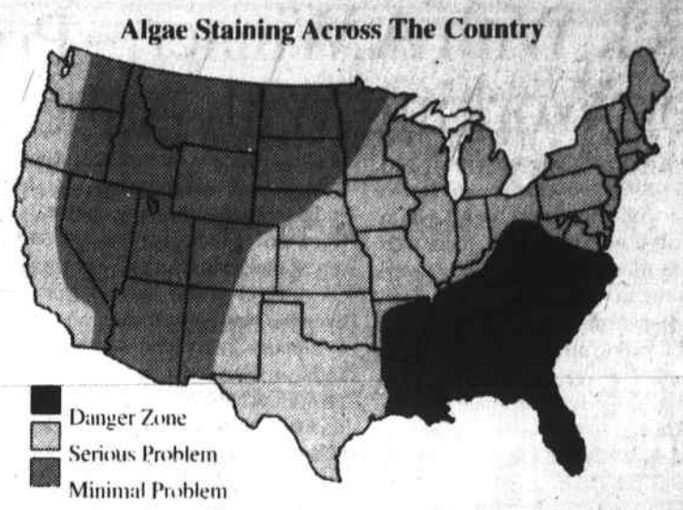

Newer water softeners are demand-controlled, meaning they regenerate only when the softener's hardness-removing capability is low. These models use less water and salt than manual time-clock softeners, which regenerate at a preset time whether the system needs it or not. Super-efficient, computer-driven softeners conserve the most water and salt. They track and predict household water usage, then regenerate for the exact amount of soft water needed each day. People with traditional time-clock softeners may want to consider upgrading to a demand-controlled model.

How Hard Is Your Water?

Approximately 85 percent of the U.S. water supply is hard. Hard water occurs when ground water flows through rock and soil, absorbing calcium and magnesium. Different parts of the country have different types of rock and soil, therefore, affecting the level of hardness in their ground water.

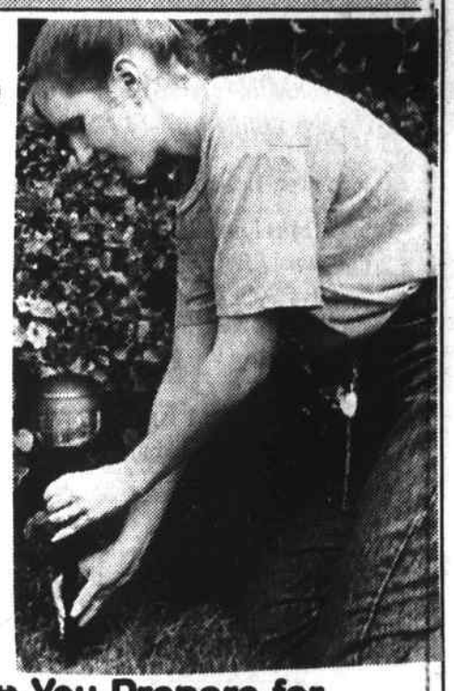

To find out the hardness of the water in your area, call your city water and sewer department. Also EcoWater Systems, the world's largest residential water treatment equipment manufacturer, has a toll-free consumer information line with that information. Call 800 869 2837 for information on hard water and solutions to many other common water problems.

Once you know the level of hardness in your water supply, you can begin improving it with the appropriate tools – a water softener and a dose of salt.

Low Voltage Lighting Brightens Yards And Gardens

Homeowners are spending an increasing amount of leisure time outdoors. As a result, millions of Americans are discovering the benefits of low voltage outdoor lighting systems – beauty, versatility, safety and security.

Low voltage lighting is one of the easiest, most economical ways to make your home, yard, garden or deck more attractive. Whether you enjoy sitting on your deck during a beautiful summer evening or highlighting your newly landscaped yard for guests, low voltage outdoor lighting adds a new dimension to any location.

While most homeowners recognize the benefits offered by outdoor lighting in general, many of them don't realize there's an inexpensive alternative to 120-volt systems that are often expensive and require installation by a landscape contractor. This alternative is called low voltage outdoor lighting because it utilizes 12 volts rather than the standard 120 volts of electricity.

"With low voltage outdoor lighting, you won't receive an electric shock – even if you touch the bare wires or cut a buried cable with a lawn mower or garden tool," says Phil Kinzer, marketing manager for Intermatic's Malibu® brand lighting systems. "This is especially reassuring for homeowners who have children or pets."

Installing a set of low voltage lights makes a great do-it-yourself project. In fact, homeowners can install an average set, including the power pack and cable, in about an hour using ordinary hand tools. A typical six-light set uses less electricity than a 60-watt bulb and costs just pennies per evening to operate.

Flexibility is another hallmark of low voltage lighting systems, as users can easily add new fixtures or move existing fixtures to different locations. A wide variety of fixtures is available, and all are designed to look just as attractive during the day as they do at night. The styles range from traditional tier, floodlight, mushroom, globe and well lights to carriage, crystal, edge and deck lights, to name just a few.

home, yard, garden or deck and determine the types of fixtures you want. Once you've selected and purchased your lighting system, determine the path the lights will follow.

After the lighting system is installed, enjoy it for a few days. Then make any final adjustments to the position of the fixtures until you are pleased with the layout and the lighting effect that's created.

To help homeowners install a low voltage lighting system, Intermatic Malibu has developed a booklet called "Light Up Your Life." Normally priced at $4.95, the 52-page booklet is being offered for a limited time at just $1.75. To obtain a copy, write: Lighting Booklet, Intermatic Malibu, Spring Grove, IL 60081-9698.

Low voltage lighting systems are available at stores carrying do-it-yourself products. Each set includes several fixtures, a power pack (or transformer) that converts 120-volt electrical current to 12 volts and a length of low voltage cable.

The most popular method of controlling the system is via a timer. However, homeowners can also obtain power packs with other features such as photo controls, dimmers and motion sensors. An assortment of useful lighting accessories is also available at many stores.

The initial step in selecting a low voltage lighting system is to survey your

Six Ways To Get Rid Of Roof Stains

Stains on your home's asphalt shingle roof can make it appear weather-beaten and run down. Found all across the United States, these roof stains are usually caused by accumulated debris, moisture or algae.

The Celotex Corporation, a national manufacturer of residential roofing products, offers the following tips to remove unsightly stains and prevent new ones from appearing:

1. Check your roof for moisture retaining debris. These can produce algae and fungus growth, cause rot and encourage insect infestations. Carefully remove any debris.
2. Remove leaves, conifer needles and other matter. Work from ridge to eave cleaning out keyways, gutters and downspouts. Do not pressure wash asphalt shingle roofs. This can dislodge roofing granules, causing premature deterioration of the shingles.
3. Trim nearby vegetation. This will help prevent debris from falling onto the surface of the roof.
4. Determine if the darkened color is soot. Improper handling and cloudy, cool humid weather during installation can cause atmospheric particles to collect on the roof and darken shingles. Soot is easily removed using a mixture of household detergent and water. Clean carefully with a soft scrub brush and rinse with a hose. Do not dislodge granules from the roof surface.
5. If an algae stain is present and localized, clean with a mixture of water, trisodium phosphate (TSP) and household bleach.

   Be sure to dilute the bleach. Cover nearby vegetation and painted surfaces with plastic sheeting. Wearing safety gear, spray cleaner on the area and let it soak for 15-20 minutes. Rinse thoroughly with fresh water. Several applications may be necessary to remove stubborn algae infestations.
6. Install fungus resistant shingles. When it's time to reroof, choose shingles manufactured with copper-clad granules. These special shingles prevent discoloration due to algae growth.

Stick With A Winner – Professional Tips For Working With Adhesives

If you've ever done any repair work around your home, chances are you've worked with adhesives. And if you're like most do-it-yourselfers, there were probably times when things didn't work out on the first try, either because you didn't prepare the surfaces properly, you used the wrong product for a particular application, or you just didn't apply the adhesive properly for optimal results.

"Surface preparation is key to projects where you'll be bonding one material to another," according to Michael Running, president of Running Remodeling, Silver Spring, Maryland, and a 1995 National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI) Contractor of the Year (CotY) award winner. "A dirty or greasy surface can cause even the best product to fail."

Equally important is selecting the right product for a particular bonding project, according to Robert Juran, director of marketing, Macco Adhesives, Cleveland, a leading manufacturer of adhesives, caulks and sealants. "To meet most bonding needs, we formulated project-specific Liquid Nails® products," said Juran. "Each product features unique properties that are best-suited to a particular application and to assist consumers. Liquid Nails user-friendly packaging clearly explains project-specific applications to make decisions easier and misuse less frequent."

According to Juran, consumers no longer have to search the fine print for a product's application, since the name of the product itself defines what it can be used for, such as Liquid Nails for Wood, Parquet & Plank Floors.

With the appropriate product and the following preparation and application tips from Running, you'll be assured of success when working with adhesives on these common do-it-yourself projects.

Hanging Paneling

Using an adhesive to hang paneling can reduce the number of nails needed and the unsightly holes that accompany them. Liquid Nails for Paneling & Molding bonds so well that you'll find you need only a few nails to install the paneling properly, according to Juran.

Make sure all surfaces are clean, dry and structurally sound before adhesive is applied. Apply a 1/4-inch zigzag bead of adhesive to each surface that the panel will be covering. Position panels so that edges meet at stud center. Press materials firmly in place, pull away for one to three minutes, then press back into place. This allows for better and quicker adhesion.

Repairing a Laminate Countertop

Water can damage laminate countertops and cause the edges to lift up and separate over time. To repair, Running suggests a simple application of contact cement.

All surfaces being bonded should be cleaned of any dust or loose, dried adhesives. With a brush, apply a liberal, even coat of contact cement to both surfaces being bonded. For small areas, you can apply the contact cement with a syringe which can be purchased from a hardware store or home center. You may have to use a utility knife to open the area more in order to get a better application. (For extremely porous surfaces, a second coat should be applied after the first coat has dried.) After both surfaces have dried slightly (per product labeling), clamp the countertop, using a block of wood on top and bottom to prevent damage to the laminate. Leave the blocks on for 24 hours, or longer in hot, humid conditions. According to Juran, Latex Liquid Nails® Contact Cement is ideal for laminate countertops and bonds instantly.

Building a Deck

Because pressure treated lumber tends to dry out, a deck's mitred corners may eventually separate. To help prevent this – and prevent the deck from squeaking when you walk on it – apply adhesive to joists before nailing. This double protection allows the planks to withstand the elements longer.

Ensure that all surfaces are clean and free of excess water. Some adhesives can adhere to damp wood, but the adhesive will take longer to cure.

Sunroom Appeal

Natural sunlight, added living space and a place to relax are among the top reasons sunrooms are growing in popularity.

Why Sunrooms Are Becoming More Popular

Homeowners are striving for enlightenment. Literally. In efforts to bring more sunlight into their lives, consumers have developed a desire for larger, more dramatic windows, streamlined window treatments, and most of all – sunrooms. In fact, more than one third of new home buyers report in consumer surveys that sunrooms are the most desirable element in a new home. And more than 500,000 American homeowners add a sunspace to their home each year, reports Qualified Remodeler magazine. So what's the appeal? Patio Enclosures, Inc., the nation's largest sunroom manufacturer, offers these insights.

Natural Light

Human beings are innately drawn to the natural light provided by sunrooms. Sunlight can actually enhance our moods, improve our health and boost our energy level by 24% according to Men's Health and Current Health magazines. Vitamin D, the "sunshine vitamin," is also recognized for providing many therapeutic benefits. "It's no wonder that sunroom owners find that they use their rooms more than they thought," says Rick Jones, President of Patio Enclosures, Inc. "They are physically attracted to the natural sunlight."

Relaxation

The number one reason homeowners report to add a sunroom is for relaxation, according to a 1995 customer survey by Patio Enclosures, Inc. The benefits of sunlight combined with the all around view of nature provided by a sunroom offers a unique, soothing environment where homeowners can get away from it all. In today's fast paced world a place to unwind at home is becoming an even more desirable home feature.

Added Space

The second most cited reason homeowners add a sunroom is for added living space, reports Patio Enclosures, Inc. Although the average size of a sunroom is 12 feet by 14 feet, larger than many rooms, they can be most any size. Sunrooms are a great way to add a family room, expand a kitchen, create a home office or attain any type of needed space. Whether added as a separate room or created by enclosing a rarely used porch or deck, sunrooms always add comfortable, productive living space.

Affordability

The cost of a sunroom ranges from only 20% to 80% of the cost of a conventional room addition. Costly foundations are not always required, a wooden deck or concrete slab are often sufficient to support a light weight glass-enclosed room. Many times a sunroom can be created by utilizing a roof overhang or enclosing an existing porch with a rolling window or door system. If there is a doorway to the new room, cutting into siding and roofing is not required. In most cases construction can often be completed in days rather than the weeks or months required for conventional building. All these benefits add up to a cost efficient and dramatic way to expand living space.

Flexibility

A sunroom can suit most any lifestyle. Whether you want to create a sun-filled family area off the living room, a cheery breakfast nook to brighten the kitchen, a spacious dining area for family get-togethers or a romantic spa enclosure for star gazing, a sunroom can be designed to meet most any homeowner's desire. Because sunrooms can be insulated for year round comfort they can be used for most any activity. Unique uses for sunrooms include home offices, exercise rooms, music rooms and winter gardens. Let your imagination soar!

Unique Design

A sunroom can be a simple screen porch, an unheated three-season glass and screen room or a year-round room built with insulated glass. Many homeowners simply opt to enclose an existing porch or deck with rolling glass units to create their sunroom. Others add one on the outside wall of their home. "Sunrooms can now be easily customized to complement the colors, design and architecture of any home," reports Jones. "Homeowners have the option of all-glass roofs, solid gable roofs, solid roofs with strategically placed glass panels and more." All options offer expanded living space, natural sunlight and a serene environment – characteristics which have made sunroom additions so popular.

Comfort

Unlike the leaky, hot structures of the past, today's sunrooms incorporate advanced technology in glass and ventilation systems to help control the temperature of the room. Insulated styles can be heated in the winter months and cooled in summer for comfort throughout the year. High tech shading systems also help homeowners save on energy costs. They also provide the ability to create various moods by blending lightscaping with privacy. The comfort and care-free maintenance of today's sunrooms make them a more practical and popular option than in the past.

Whether you are looking to add a special room or just create a place to relax, sunrooms are a beautiful way to bring sunlight, comfort and living space to your home.

Water, Water Everywhere, But Not A Drop To Drink?

Recent reports on the safety of our water supply may have many Americans thinking before they drink that next glass of tap water.

For instance, the 1993 contamination of Milwaukee's water supply by intestinal parasites, which affected more than 400,000 residents, proved that modern America is not immune to the health issues that face many Third World countries. Equally serious was the Environmental Protection Agency's recent finding that 819 water systems serving 30 million people nationwide contained excess levels of lead.

To protect themselves from such contaminates, many people are now installing water filtration systems in their homes. One such product is Whirlpool's WaterSource™ System.

This new point-of-use, under-sink water filtration system comes in four levels, each designed to deal with an increasingly wider range of incoming water conditions. At the top of the line is System IV, which uses a special reverse osmosis membrane to filter out lead, mercury, nitrate and other impurities as small as .02 microns.

"There are lots of good reasons to have filtered water in your home," says Glenn Holubar, director, Whirlpool Specialty Products, "ranging all the way from better tasting water to the reduction of potentially harmful impurities and chemicals like lead and nitrate—and the bottom line is that it's good for the whole family."

All of Whirlpool's filtration systems are designed for easy installation. Each comes with all parts and tubing required for installation, including non-compression, quick-connect fittings and detailed, step-by-step, color-coded installation instructions.

WaterSource™ Systems are also covered by a one-year full/five-year limited warranty (excluding replacement cartridges) and service is available in favor of the new stadium but they didn't want to use town funds for the project. Tewksbury Selectmen Kevin Anderson suggested a survey be developed for the people who would be most affected by the building of the stadium and Wilmington Selectmen Jim Rooney suggested they include all the townspeople to get a more accurate account. Miceli, Rooney, and Tewksbury Selectmen Richard Hanson suggested appointing a subcommittee to approach the issue by meeting with the head players, such as the Governor, Speaker of the House or the President of the Senate. Tarr agreed that the Governor should be involved and that his influence is needed to start the project.

"We're [the Senate] about to undertake our budget," Tarr said. He's proposing to offer an amendment to the Department of Capital Planning and Operations to get involved and evaluate communities that are suitable for this project. They are also proposing a Convention Center Bond Bill and will look at attaching an amendment to that bond bill to provide some of the needed funding for projects like this. "Barring that, we face a nearly insurmountable task of raising the necessary funds," Tarr said. He said that his office is presently preparing a letter requesting Lt. Governor Celucci meet in Boston with representatives of the towns and some state officials. This meeting would be to discuss designing a process of selecting a host community in a effort to try to keep the Patriots in Massachusetts. Wilmington Town Manager Mike Caira suggested that the Legislative delegations identify community sites and let the communities go forward to lobby for their sites. "We are not keeping our expectations up at a high level," Tarr said.

Tewksbury Selectmen John Ryan said, "We have a long way to go. We should go back to our work. I don't think the Patriots are coming." Rooney said that even though the chances of the Pats coming to this area is remote, he still thinks the project deserves "one last shot." The Patriots are still considering other locations, such as Foxboro and Rhode Island. Foxboro shows some willingness to provide funding, and there is funding available for "infrastructure" construction from the state which could renovate Foxboro Stadium. "We're all in this together," Tarr said. "I think that no matter what happens the corroboration between the two towns is good."

contunuously covering the story and keeping in touch with the families.

Terrazzano's first taste of journalism came when she interned for the Town Crier during the summers of 1985 and 1986. "I owe the Town Crier a great deal," she said. "They gave me a $500 scholarship. For that, I will always be grateful." She also worked on the Tewksbury High School "Smoke Signals" paper, and enjoyed that.

A graduate of Tewksbury High School class of 1986, Terrazzano went on to earn an undergraduate degree at Boston University. Shortly after earning her degree at BU, she moved out to New York to search for a job in journalism. Before she applied to Columbia University for a Master of Arts Degree in Journalism, she had a series of editing jobs on business and trade magazines. After graduating Columbia in 1994, she received a 1 year internship at the New York Daily News. From there, she was employed by several other papers and was hired by Newsday, which is the seventh largest daily newspaper in the country and covers Long Island and Queens. She realized then that daily journalism is what she ultimately wanted.

Terrazzano was notified that her team earned the Prize on April 7th. She was one of three reporters mentioned in the submission of a nomination letter that Newsday sent to the Pulitzer Committee. "I never thought I'd win a Pulitzer Prize before I reached the age of 30. It was quite a surprise!" she said.

Terrazzano, who just turned 29, lives in New York City with her husband of one and one half years and a cat named Lucy. Her plans for the future will always include journalism and she said she owes some credit to her parents for their continual support while she pursued her career. "My parents have been extremely supportive throughout my life," Terrazzano said. She is very proud of her parents, Frank and Virginia, who still live in Tewksbury.

Mico

Mico and the Chief during the designing of the Wamesit Indian statue in Tewksbury.

Born in Romania, Kaufman immigrated to the United States in 1951 at the age of 27. He quickly established himself as a significant artist in the Boston area and then nationally with his numismatic work done in his long term relationship with the Medallic Art Company. The high point of his career was his commission to design the inaugural medal of President Ford, one of the highest accolades in the numismatic world in the United States. Kaufman subsequently received three other inaugural medal commission, distinguishing himself as the only artist to have received a total of four commissions. His medal commemorating President Reagan's second inauguration is lauded by numismatic experts as a coup for Kaufman, not only because of his superlative artistic skills, but also because of Kaufman's innovative interpretation of the subject matter.

The design and execution of medals have been a major part of his artistic opus culminating in his receiving the J. Sanford Saltus Award for Signal Achievement from the American Numismatic Association in 1992.

Kaufman has also distinguished himself in the area of monumental works as demonstrated in his numerous public works on display in his home town of Tewksbury and in Lowell. His much acclaimed sculpture "Homage to Women" located on Market Street in Lowell was the first sculpture placed in the Mill City's Sculpture Trail. Kaufman has also placed the "Christos G. Rouses Memorial" located in the center of Lowell's Civil Plaza, dedicated to the memory of Lowell Police Officers who gave their lives in the line of duty and "Italia" commissioned by the Italian-American community of Lowell, to honor the men and women of Italian descent who helped build the city of Lowell and the United States.

Kaufman has placed four major sculptures in Tewksbury: "Water" a sculpture depicting the relationship between Helen Keller and her teacher Anne Sullivan; the "Wamesit Indian;" "Touching Souls" placed on the grounds of the Tewksbury United Methodist Church on Main Street and "The Muster," also located on Main Street. The exhibit will include models of all the public sculpture produced by Mr. Kaufman.

The retrospective will also focus on Kaufman's experimental plastics work. These works are abstractions crated with ribbons of hot polyethylene strips emitted from a plastic extruder under high pressure at 400 degrees F. The series was done in conjunction with the Plastics Department at Umass, Lowell. These works are a surprising departure from Kaufman's traditional work and therefore add novel dimension to his sculpture.

Kaufman is a fellow of the National Sculpture Society, and the American Numismatic Association. His works are in numerous public and private collection including the British Museum and the Smithsonian Museum.

The sculpture will be on display in the Parker Gallery of the Whistler House from April 30 to May 31. A gala. The Whistler Museum is located at 243 Worthen St., Lowell. Museum hours are Wednesday-Saturday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m. likely that the suspect blood alcohol concentration is above 0.10. The reliability of this four or more clues criterion is 77 percent.

The arrest decision

Your arrest/no arrest decision is the culmination of the OWI detection process. Your decision is based on all the evidence you have accumulated during each detection phase.

Phase one:

* Initial observation of vehicle in motion;
* Observation of the stop.

Phase two:

*Face to face observation and interview;
* Observation of the exit.

Phase three:

* Psychophysical tests;
* Preliminary breath tests.

Your decision involves a careful review of each of the observations you have made. Conduct a "mental summary" of the evidence collected during vehicle in motion, personal contact and pre-arrest screening. If all of the evidence, taken together, establishes probable cause to believe that OWI has been committed, you should effect physical arrest of the suspect for OWI.

Two class volunteers were given four cans of Lite beer during the course of the night. Officer Bossi then preformed field sobriety, and a breath test. Both showed obvious, but different signs of intoxication.

Wilmington Police have recorded 19 OUI arrests during the period of January 1st - April 31st.

Please keep in mind that this topic was consolidated to fit into a 90 minute period. Officer Bossi's presentation was both very informative and interesting

Still going after 145 years

Tewksbury Hospital adapts to the times

By CHARLOTTE COOPER AND FRANK AMATO

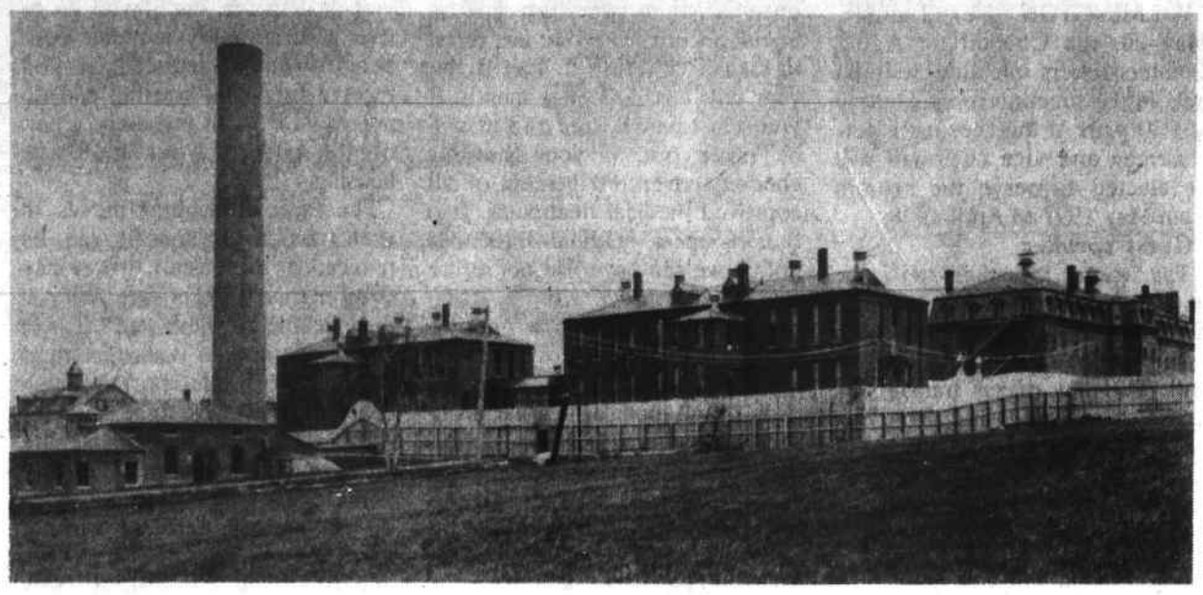

Tewksbury Hospital: a history in the making. When you're poor, sick, have no one to care for you, and you lived in the 1800's, where could you go to receive the attention you needed? Tewksbury Hospital.

Tewksbury State Hospital, called the Tewksbury Almshouse in 1852, was one of three state "almshouses," or homes for people too poor to support themselves. "When it opened as an alms house, they expected to serve about 200 people, but in about 6 -7 weeks after it had opened, it had about 800. In those days there was no unemployment compensation or accident compensation and there were a lot of individuals who were displaced from their homes because of civil war, etc," said Raymond Sanzone, F.A.C.H.E., Hospital Administrator.

In 1866, the almshouse became the state's first facility to accept patients who were diagnosed as chronically insane. "It was called the "State Alms House and Asylum for the Harmlessly Insane," said Sanzone. At that time concern for public health was also increasing. Lemuel Shattuck's report "The Sanitary Survey of 1850," was the start of the movement toward assurance of improving public health. Implementation of his report, although delayed for over 10 years, was instrumental in establishing a state public health authority, maternal and child health programs, classroom health education, housing and factory inspections, and improvements in the collection and analysis of vital statistics.

By 1874, the effects of Shattuck's report were being felt. The Tewksbury Hospital facility had become diversified; 40% was used as a mental illness ward, 27% as a hospital ward, and 33% as an almshouse. The chronic population grew steadily, and programs for alcoholics and therapeutic industrial and occupational therapy were added in the 1870's. "Massachusetts had the first State Department of Public Health in the country. One of the first school for nurses was set up here," said Mr. Merle W. Mudd, President of the Public Health Museum. A "Home Training School for Nurses" was established in 1894, becoming a three-year program in 1898. It became a focal point for the Universities and Medical Schools as a place where you could see these chronic diseases. It became, in effect, a teaching facility. It was renamed the Tewksbury Hospital Infirmary in about 1909.

"By the turn of the century, Tewksbury Hospital had changed from an alms house to one of the biggest hospitals in the Commonwealth. Harvard Medical School came up here with a rotation of medical staff. Some early medals were received for treatment of Tuberculosis," Sanzone said. He said that in the 1940's Tewksbury had a huge maternity service, a children's hospital which cared for the genetically impaired or severely disabled children, and had separate wards for the mentally ill and communicable diseased patients. With the public hospital's influx of Federal funds, State Hospital's assumed the role of just taking care of the population as needed. "When Medicare took over, the general population could go where they wanted and the State maternity facilities at Tewksbury Hospital closed down," Sanzone said. In the fifties and sixties they closed the asylum wings, and in the eighties they discharged most of the patients at Danvers and Westboro and other facilities to Tewksbury.

The Almshouse grounds as they appeared about 1883. Left to right are the Womens Insane Hospital, the Engine House, Dynamo Room and the Female Hospital.

Sanzone said that the Hospital has really come full circle. It's history is in caring for the population that no one really had the facilities or resources for. It later became academic with surgical medicine, and now it continues to be a place where psychiatric clients and medically disabled clients are cared for.

Most of the older buildings have gone and others have been renovated to accommodate the current clients, but the administration building remains. "Chet Kennedy had his eye on this old administration building, and he saw this as such a handsome building that he got the permission of Public Health to save it. The whole hospital is on the national historic record. The state began to restore this building. In 1994, New England's first Public Health Museum opened here in Tewksbury," Mudd said. The museum is an outgrowth of the 1990 Centennial Celebration of the Massachusetts Public Health Association, the oldest such organization in the United States. In January, 1994, the Tewksbury Hospital was entered in the national Registry of Historic Places. The Public Health Museum is located on the grounds of Tewksbury State Hospital.

This series will explore all of the programs and services at the Campus. Among those that we will describe include: H.A.R.T. House; Department of Mental Health Hathorne Units, Department of Public Health Medical Units; Centerpoint Intensive Residential Treatment Program; Community Health Initiatives Detoxification Program; Glenice Sheehan Program; Mass. Emergency Management Agency; O.U.I. Program; Nichols Program; Tewksbury Hospital Early Learning Center; Tewksbury Hospital School of Practical Nursing; Vision House.

Next Week, we will discuss the Centerpoint Treatment Program; and the Department of Mental Health's Hathorne Units.

Several letters from local organizations, requesting permission to use the Town Common, were reviewed by the board as well.

On Memorial Day Weekend, the Wilmington Minuteman Company and other New England militias, are planning to assemble on the common to form a parade and erect a Liberty Pole.

Permission was granted, as long as the group's activities do not interfere with Wilmington High School's graduation ceremony across from the Town Common.

The Board of Selectmen also approved of Library Director Christina Stewart's request to hold a Library Summer Celebration on the common.

The event will take place on the evening of June 19, and will help to promote the new Friends of the Library organization, as well as launch the annual summer reading program.

However, the board conflicted over the Wilmington Bands Parents and Friends Organization's request to host their Fifth Annual Flea Market.

Rooney, concerned with the high turnover of flea market patrons, cited traffic as a potential safety problem and suggested that the group use the nearby Swain School.

Conversely, Selectman Robert Cain noted that the visibility of the annual flea market is crucial to its success.

"It's been going on for years. These are local people trying to use town property," said Cain.

As a result, the board motioned to ask the group to consider the Swain School's lawn to avoid any traffic, and or, safety problems.

The evening concluded with the authorization of the Chapter 90 blacktop overlay projects.

The overall cost of hot topping several of the town's streets has been estimated at $1,111,000. The purchase of additional equipment for these road repairs was also approved.

Wilmington Senior Topics

WILMINGTON - Next Tuesday, May 20, the Council on Aging Commissioners meeting will be held in the function room, starting at 1:30 p.m. At this meeting a new chairman and vice chairman will be elected to serve the seniors from May 1997 to April 1998.

Guest speaker

The guest speaker will be Attorney James Banda, a senior himself. Many questions have been asked on the Kennedy-Kassebaum Bill. This law makes transfers of assets a federal crime. How can we protect our assets if we are to receive any federal help? Will we lose our home if one spouse has to go to a nursing home. Can a trust protect us? What kind of trust? And many other questions can be answered by Attorney Banda. Go to the meeting and get your answers free of charge.

If you would like to have a member of the Commissioners ask the question for you, write it down and one of them will ask it. You do not have to put your name on it.

Medicaid/Medicare

Many seniors confuse the words Medicare and Medicaid. Medicare is a medical coverage program under the Federal Government. Every citizen who reaches the age of 65, and received a Social Security check,will qualify for Medicare. It is divided into two parts, A and B. A covers all hospital care and is free to all. B is optional,when we sign up for Social Security at 65 we can select to take it or refuse it. Part B this year will cost $43.80 a month. If you select part B, the $43.80 will be taken out of your monthly check.It covers 80 percent of all approved medical treatments. It is the cheapest medical insurance policy we can have. Do not refuse it.

Medicaid is for low income persons living at the poverty level. Medicaid is under the State and pays for all medical treatments for those who qualify. Many seniors under Medicaid, do not realize that the Federal Government's Medicare Program reimburses the State 80 percent for all their Medicaid recipients.

The reason that Medicare reimburses is that the State pays the $43.80 for all seniors under the program every month. The seniors under Medicaid receive their full Social Security check. They also receive a Supplemental Security Income (SSI) check. This money comes out of the Government General Fund. It is not taken out of the Social Security Trust Fund as many think. Seniors under SSI should be aware of the many rules to be abided if receiving SSI. Every recipient does not receive the same amount of money. It depends on the amount you receive from Social Security. If you live alone you receive the full amount you qualify for, but if you go to live with a family member your benefit can be reduced, if you receive food and housing and do not pay for it, or pay only a part of the cost of your food and housing

The same if another moves in with you, your benefit can be reduced or eliminated if they pay you for food and housing. What if they decide to move out? It will take some time for you to return to your full benefits. A new evaluation will have to be started.

Many Medicare statements are being brought to me that say "Medicare will not cover this service, because we feel it was not necessary." If your doctor ordered the treatment or test, it was necessary. Send a copy of the statement back to Medicare. Let it be known that you are paying $43.80 to cover 80 percent of your medical care. That includes all medical care, treatment and test the doctor ordered. Also send a copy to your Federal Senators and Congressman. They should know that Medicare is making the decision of how much of your medical care prescribed by your doctor they will pay 80 percent of.

If this procedure being perpetrated against the elderly by the Medicare administrators does not stop now more and more of the elderly medical cost will be cut until the 80 percent coverage the program is supposed to pay will be eliminated. If enough statements are returned by those receiving them, and the politicians who they are sent to return them to Medicare with questions. This abuse of the elderly will stop.

Two seniors serve up more than their share

by JAMIE POTE

WILMINGTON--One of them, Tom Perreault, is a speedburner on the court who will go through the fence just to help his team win. For an example, two years ago, Perreault beat a Billerica player in a match without any toenails (a brick fell on his toes causing his toenails to fall off).

The second one, Keith McLaren, is more of a finesse player with a power serve that spins. McLaren also has and will do anything to help his teammates win.

Both of these Wilmington High School seniors are very good tennis players as they have shown their abilities for the past four years for Mike Tammaro's program. They have a lot in common: both of them are lefties; both of them said they have better forehands than backhands; and both of them bring a lot more to the court than just their tennis racquets.

"Tommy and Keith are two kids who are perfect examples of what the Wilmington tennis program is all about," said Tammaro. "They are kids who like to play tennis, who work very hard at it and they are great, great kids. I knew they were going to play for me when they were in seventh and eighth grade when we would talk about it. I also knew that they would give everything they have for these four years and they have, they have worked very hard. They are both pretty darn good tennis players."

After Monday and Tuesday's back-to-back home losses to Masconomet and Hamilton-Wenham, the tennis team needs to win its last two matches against North Andover and Hamilton-Wenham to get into the state tournament for the second straight season. Perreault said he would love to get a chance to be a part of that again.

"Qualifying for the states was a lot of fun, except we lost 5-0 to Concord-Carlisle. We still have a good shot at getting in this season," Perreault said before Monday's win.

Perreault has the honors of being the team's number one singles player. Two years ago, he and McLaren were the team's number one doubles team and they had an incredible season going 12-5 together. Last season, Perreault moved up to second singles, while, McLaren was third and both of them continued their success getting a lot of points for the team. Perreault ended his junior season with a 9-5 record and thus far this season he has struggled a bit against other number one singles players at 4-8, but his overall record of 25-19 is not too shabby.

"I don't think it's a lot of pressure [being the team's number one singles player]. I like it. I like playing, I like having fun and I like meeting people from other towns," Perreault said.

As for McLaren who has also been a very good shot-putter for the winter track team, his junior season on the courts was very impressive as he went 12-3. Thus far this season he is 5-5 (his Tuesday match was suspended because of rain) and his overall record thus far is 29-14 and that says a lot for the strong armed server.

"It's not harder to serve [being a lefty]," McLaren said. "It's harder for them to return it."

McLaren said of his game he takes most pride in his serve, but not his backhand shot.

"I usually try to serve with power and sometimes I try to get a spin on the ball," McLaren said, while also describing what he tries to do for position after he serves. "It's like a baseball pitcher. After he releases the ball he is square. I stay square waiting for the return."

Why so much trouble with the backhander?

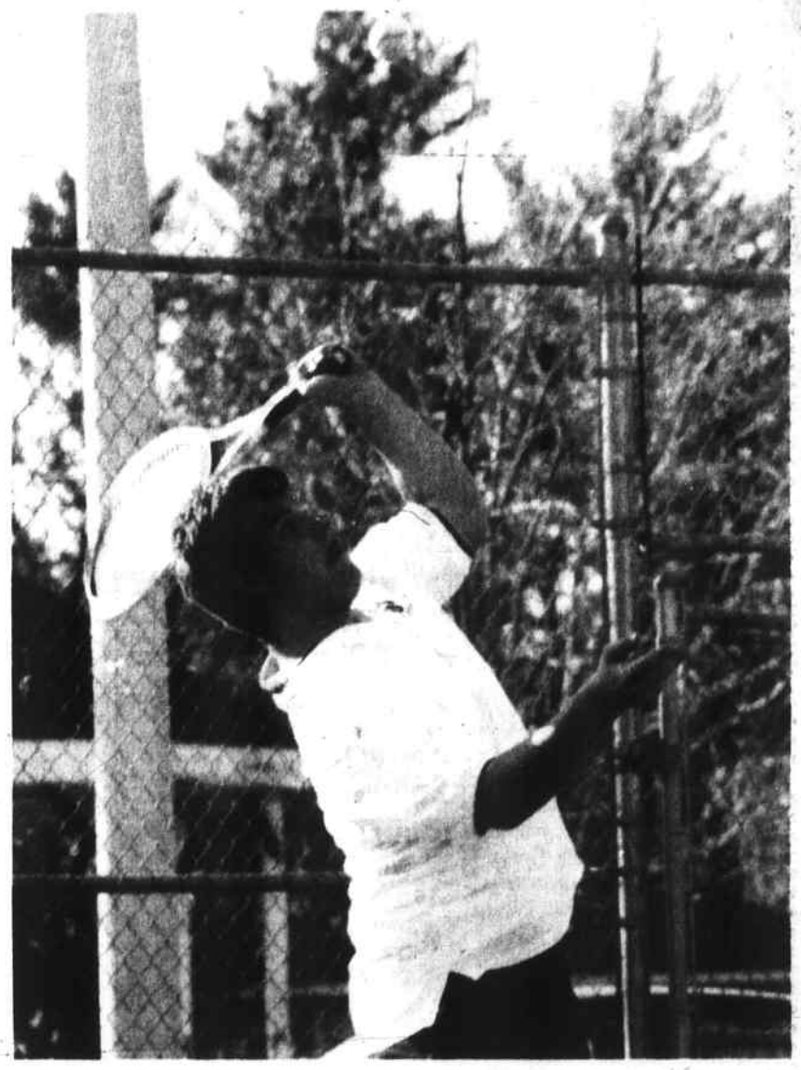

"It depends on the day ...sometimes my backhander can be my best buddy, but other times it can be my worst enemy," McLaren added.

As for Perreault, he said he got the thought of playing from his older brother Shawn who graduated in 1992. Tom said for his serve he just tries to keep the ball in play, but in high school tennis the two players are its own referees.

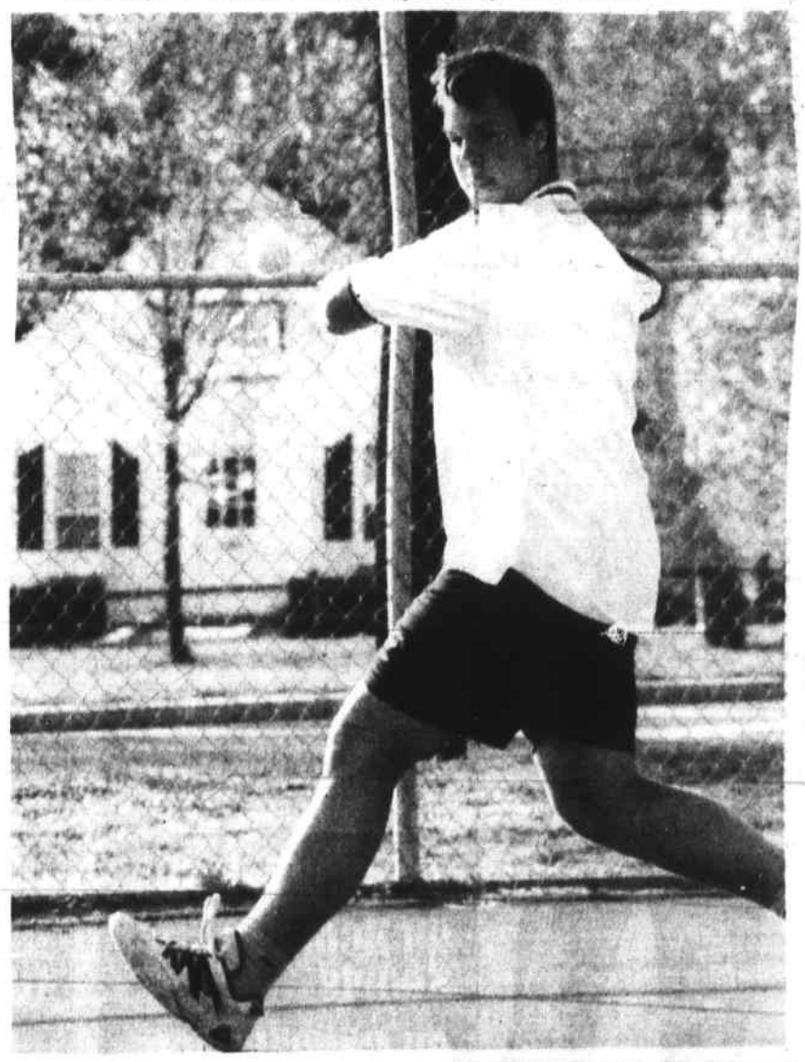

"Yeah we make our own calls ...sometimes it's tough because you try to be fair about it and other times your opponent isn't as fair."

Not only do both of these tennis players have a lot in common with their style of play and their attitudes and commitment to the team, but they also agree that the team should have a better record and that the season could be going better. Most importantly though, they both agree that they are having fun at something they love to do, which is all that counts.

Cripps fans respond to column

Dear Editor:

Perhaps your so called "Sports Editor" should be writing for The Star or The National Inquirer. His article this past week regarding the Wilmington High track coach was full of lies, rumors, and unsubstantiated facts. Of course this is how most of his articles are written. We already read his self promoting article about how hard he works, how pressed for time he is, and how hard a job he has trying to cover the sports in Wilmington and Tewksbury. Covering sports is his job. If he finds the work too difficult, he should quit. Especially since in the last three years his writing skills haven't improved a bit. His article is full of garbage. Mr. Pote hasn't been to "10 to 15" meets in the last three years. If he did show up at any time in the last couple of years, it was because Wilmington had an outstanding runner that every newspaper was writing about. He would have looked more foolish than usual if he hadn't covered him in his sports articles.

He says he covers teams that are winning. The track team had a winning season this winter and he never came to one meet. The football team, unfortunately, had a losing season the first year in the Cape Ann League, yet there were at least three long articles a week on this team. Shame on you, Jamie Pote, for saying what sports attract the most fans. You aren't at the track meets so how do you know how many fans go.

Football and basketball are played at times that are more convenient for fans to attend (students as well as adult spectators). Mr. Pote should read his own paper. The coaches salaries are paid out of the athletic budget, which is supported in part by the athletic fees the students have had to pay. Teams such as the track team pay. Teams such as the track team pay more than their share. The extra money gotten from teaks like the track team go to support the more expensive sports.

I'm sure my letter is too long and probably won't get printed. I am very angry that the editor of the Town Crier allowed him to submit this article and use this paper as a forum to lambaste the Wilmington track coach. Especially, when it is obvious Mr. Pote lacks people skills. The article certainly doesn't belong on the sports page. If he had trouble getting info on the track team from the coach perhaps it was because of all the wrong information he put into the paper over the last several years. He obviously doesn't like track or know anything about it.

This goes for the other sports that he claims he will never go to see. He should never call himself a sports writer. The Wilmington track parents know what kind of coach Bob Cripps is. Their knowledge is based on first hand observations. They know not to put any truth into Jamie's article. It is for all the other readers of this paper I write this letter. Ask a track parent who attends the meets, or ask a member of the team. They'll be happy to tell you what sort of coach he is.

I'm sure the coaches Jamie says think so highly of him are just asking themselves the question "Is any kind of coverage better than no coverage at all?" I am sure that the sports coverage on the track team will now be non-existent because of my letter. It is not as bad as it seems. The Advertiser and the Lowell Sun cover Wilmington track much better and more often than Jamie Pote.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

by Edward H. Wilkens

SECOND TIME IS EASIER

QUESTION: Is it true that fire drills and planning are just as important at home as in schools?

ANSWER: All you have to do is ask any family who has experienced a fire at home. They would all have handled it differently. What would you do if your home caught fire tonight?

It's easier to evacuate a burning home safely if you've done it before in practice, especially for the children. Determine at least two exits from each room and which to use — depending upon the location of the fire.

Schools require fire drills, but they are neglected in the home where chances of fire are 200 times greater. Remember — the second time is easier, especially if it's the real thing.

IT'S A LOT EASIER to know what to do in case of fire if you've practiced it beforehand.

Column didn't belong on the sports pages

Dear Jamie:

I hope you feel better after last weeks' little tirade against Bob Cripps. To be honest, it sounded more like a temper tantrum from a six-year-old - one of those 'I'm gonna tell on you' hissy fits that are typical of small children. Having said that, here's some free advice...a big part of growing up is learning to work and deal with people we don't like or agree with.

It's obvious that you don't like Bob Cripps, but it's your job to deal with him. The only ones who will lose in this situation are the track athletes. Telling them and their parents that you "will never, ever call or deal with Bob Cripps again," means only that they can expect even less coverage than usual.

Come on, Jamie, here's a challenge - write some track stories without any help from Mr. Cripps. If you actually went to a meet you could walk around all afternoon and avoid him pretty easily. With four assistant coaches, two team captains, two team managers, and the athletes themselves, I'm sure you could find someone to talk to. Of course it would help if you did a little track homework first, which brings us to the next topic.

You don't know very much about track. That's okay - nobody expects you to know everything about every sport - but if you don't put in the time, you'll never learn. At the beginning of each season, you could at least find out what the events are. That way, you wouldn't have to waste the coach's time asking about winter events in the spring and spring events in the winter. Remember, good questions are more likely to get good answers.

Next point. You think you've probably seen "10-15 meets over the past three years or so" and you think you saw "at least 10" of those last year in Roxbury. Sounds good, but let me check the math. If you went to 10 last winter (you must mean the 1995-96 season), that leaves only five for the rest of the three years. Add it up. Cross country - about 15 meets per season; winter track - 20 or more; spring track, 20 or more - that's at least 55 meets over the year and 165 meets over the three years. Five meets out of 165 isn't much. And by the way, we didn't have 10 meets at Reggie last winter. It was only three or four. I was at all of them, you weren't.

You say that if the track teams were off to a great start the paper would be filled with track results. Guess what? This winter, 1996-97, our track team was off to a great start and finished over .500 for the first time in a decade. We had a great season and sent runners to the All State meet and the New Englands. You still weren't there.

I could go on and address all the comments in your article (which, by the way, is the longest track story you've ever written), but I'd like to get back to Mr. Cripps.

If you're looking for someone warm and fuzzy, look elsewhere. Bob Cripps is tough - tough on his students, and tough on his athletes. Not because he expects them to do the impossible, but because he demands that they do their best. And isn't that what growing up and heading off into the real world is all about? You're right, there are kids who don't like him and plenty of kids who've quit track, but, put it into perspective. Take three different sports, three different seasons, varsity and junior varisty, girls and boys, lump them all together, and call it track. That's 150 or more athletes in a sport that is grueling, at best. Do you think you, or any coach, could keep them all happy?

A number of former WHS runners come back every year, some of them are now running in college. They visit, they help coach, sometimes they train, but they all come back to see Bob Cripps. He must be doing something right.

One last comment. In no way did your story belong as a news story on the front page of the sports section. In the future, when you feel the need to blow off steam, use the editorial page, or at least label your work as such.

Sincerely,
Marcella Sweet

Cripps is more than a coach

Dear Jamie:

I was outraged by your article, 'Track Coach Needs to Grow Up.' That story was an editorial from the start and should have been properly labeled as one. Secondly, I think that was a blatent attack against Bob Cripps.

I have run track for 12 seasons and have under Mr. Cripps for all of them (he was Frank Kelley's assistant for the first year). I've also had Mr. Cripps in class, and we have been friends for quite a while now. Whenever I've needed anything: advice, guidance, or a recommendation for college, Mr. Cripps has been there for me. He can be a little rough around the edges sometimes, but we all are on occasion.

My first complaint about your editorial is your childish attitude towards the whole thing. You said, "...but I started to explain as an adult that I can only do so much, and as a child Bob Cripps said enough and he hung up on me." Every time you call him you're whining and making excuses for why you haven't covered the team, he's probably tired of hearing it. Who's the child in this situation? Name calling doesn't seem to mature to me.

Next comes your comment, "Just to let all of the track athletes and parents know I will never, ever call or deal with Bob Cripps again." One of the biggest tasks as an adult is to deal with people we don't like. It's your job to talk to him, whether you like it or not. Not everything in life is enjoyable.

I think your article was unfair. So, you don't like Bob Cripps...get over it. I'm sure there are people who don't care for you either, but (fortunately for you) they're not in a position where they can write an article and put it on the front page of the sports section. In the future, I hope we won't be subjected to any more of this ridiculous bashing.

Sincerely,
Michael Sweet

Softball team remains undefeated with dramatic win

by JAMIE POTE

WILMINGTON--The Wilmington High School softball team proved the theory that when your hot, things continue to go your way. Just ask that question to the North Reading softball team.

On a cold and rainy Friday night in front of a solid crowd at Aprile Field, the softball team made it twelve in a row (which has them as the sixth best team in Eastern Mass. in Monday's Boston Globe) without a loss as it beat North Reading 8-5 after trailing 5-1 going to the home half of the fifth inning.

"We knew they were a good team and they surely proved that tonight," said head coach Paul Lyman, who saw his team go to 13-0 on Monday with a 9-3 win over Masconomet. "They were really pounding that ball. They hit Robin [Mainini] hard tonight, but Robin had trouble getting the ball low and when she keeps it high she has problems. Both teams made some nice defensive plays and we hung in there. You have to give a lot of credit to our bench for getting things going, the kids never quit and that's why we won."

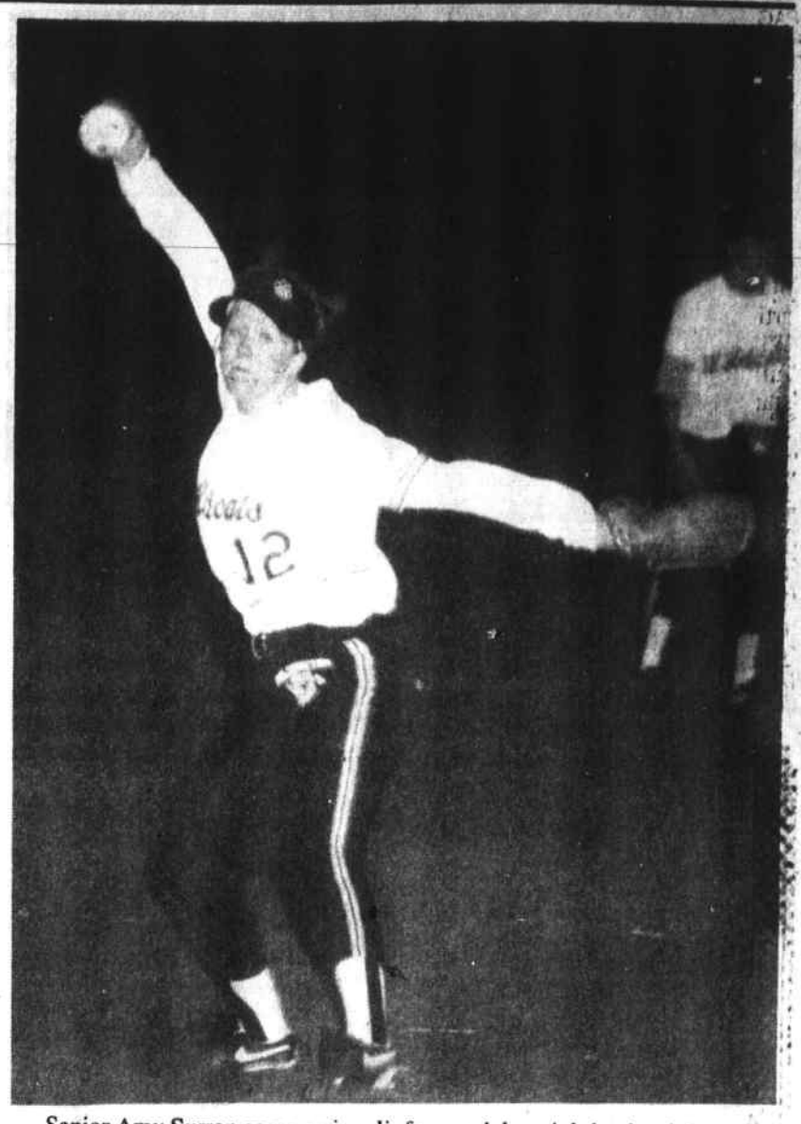

North Reading was leading 5-1 thru their first five at bats. In the top of the first inning, a perfect relay throw to third base on a gap shot ruined the Hornets chances of scoring more than one run. North Reading added two more in the third inning on two hits and a Wilmington error. Amy Surran replaced Mainini in the fourth and in the fifth North Reading was able to get two more runs on two hits and a walk.

Down 5-1 in the home half of the fifth, sophomore Melissa Wolfe (batting .400 right now) got things going with a walk. Karen MacArthur followed and she got hit by a pitch in the ankle which forced her out of the game and Emily King went in to run for her. After a pop-up on a bunt, Catherine Townsend (batting .654) singled in Wolfe to make it 5-2 with one out. Julie Gillis got hit by a pitch to load the bases and on the first pitch after striking out her previous two at-bats, Melissa Mather singled up the middle to score King and Townsend, making it 5-4 as NR was able to get out the jam.

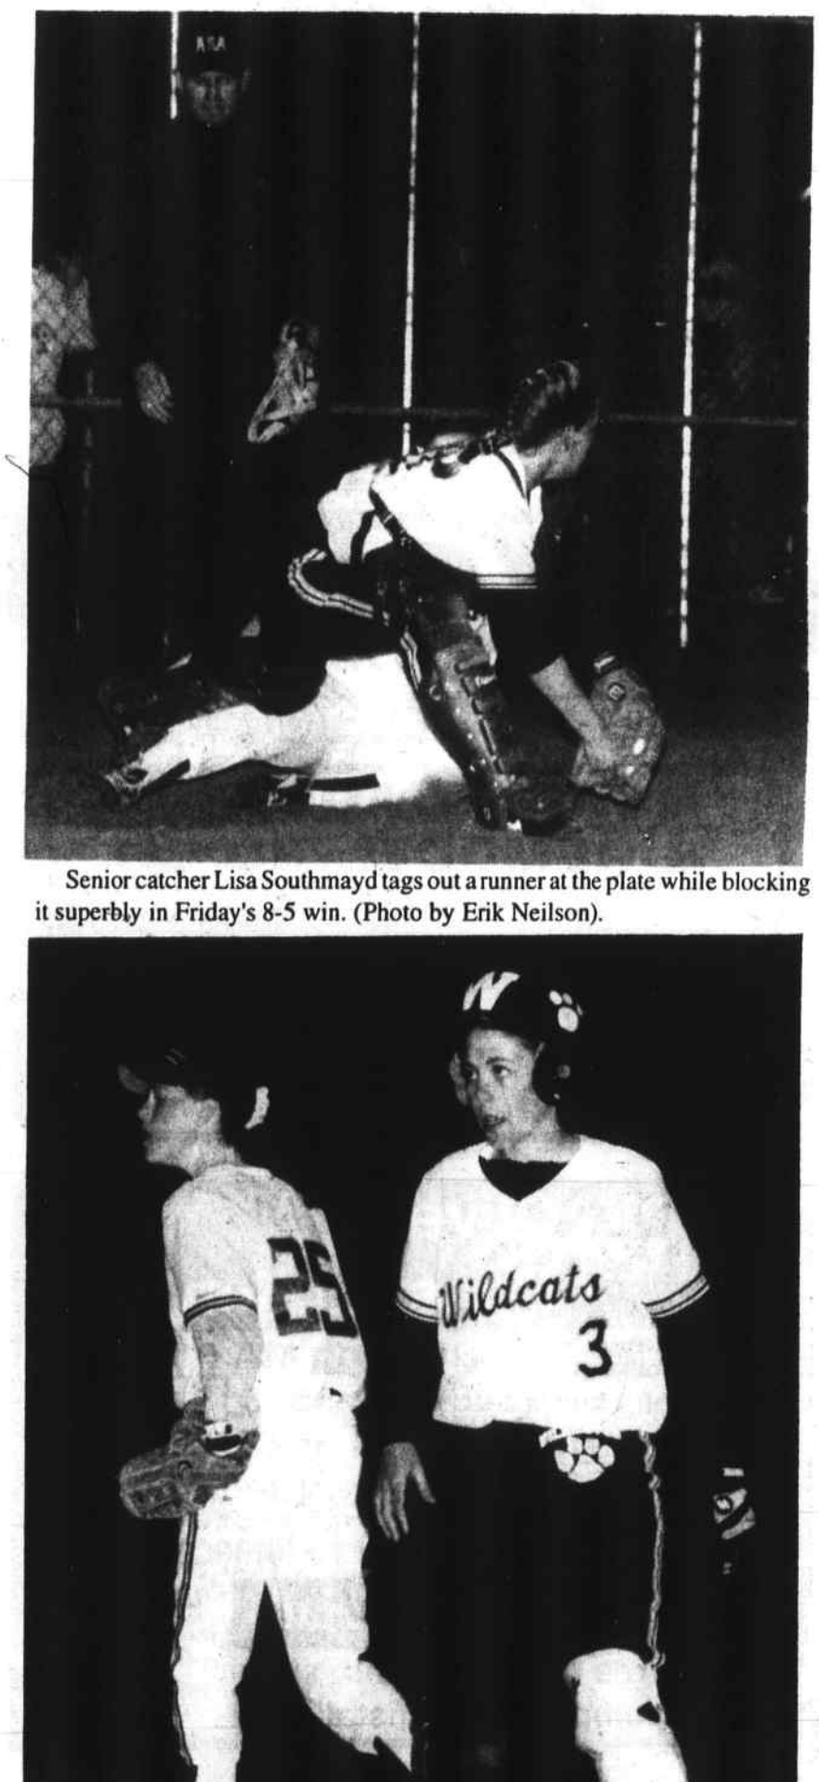

Surran walked the lead off batter in the top of the sixth, but Lisa Southmayd gunned her out trying to steal second and then Surran struck out the next two batters to continue the momentum switch for the Cats.

Jill Lojek walked to lead off the bottom of the sixth and that lifted NR's starter. Wolfe beat out an bunt to set the table for pinch hitter Deanna Ward. Lojek and Wolfe pulled off a double steal and that paid off as Ward singled hard to left field to score Lojek and Wolfe came around on a bad throw for what was the go-ahead run. Melissa Palermo reached on an error to score Ward and she moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Townsend. Gillis singled sending Palermo to third and both of them moved up a base on a throwing error and Wilmington quickly erased a 5-1 deficit with a 8-5 thanks to some smart heads up play.

On Monday, Surran improved her record to 9-0 with the 8-3 win at Masco. Surran, Southmayd, Mather and Townsend all had two hits each in the win and Southmayd drove in three runs.

Otovic responds to new challenges

by Steve Repsys

WILMINGTON--Like Bruce Springsteen's song, Peter Otovic was born to run.

The senior at Wilmington High School transferred at the beginning of this year from Syracuse, New York. Otovic noted that coming from a much larger state there was much more competition. In the division he was in at Syracuse was broken into 13 sections, which is almost as many as there is in the state of Massachusetts.

Otovic actually began running track in seventh grade. Originally he thought basketball was his sport. But in seventh grade he didn't make the team. However to get to the park to play, Otovic would run to get there. Eventually he found he was more suited for track.

His love for track helped to make the big adjustment to the much smaller community of Wilmington.

"I made a lot of friends running track (at WHS). It definitely helped to make new friends," Otovic said.

Running track is something he does rather well. This past winter, he won the 300 and placed fifth in the New England 300. However his favorite event his the 400 meter dash.

"I like it because it's the hardest event. It takes speed, strength and endurance. It's the best event," Otovic said.

One of his goals his to slice time off his personal best in the 400 meter dash to from 49.7 seconds to under 48 seconds.

What he enjoys about track is that it is an individual sport where he has no one else to blame for his performance but himself.

"I'm a wicked intense person. I believe in going all out at practice. Going all out is to my benefit. The more crazy I get, the more I find it helps. I only need myself in track. I like that aspect," said the college bound Otovic, who will attend Fairleigh Dickinson University or UMASS/Lowell as a marine biology major with a track scholarship.

Otovic found that track greatly helped out with his academic performance. "Athletics gives me motivation for school. I pushes me and helps me do both and get better grades."

Unfortunately for Otovic he hurt his hamstring in late April and reinjured it two weeks ago. The injury is slow to heal and to mend his hamstring Otovic has been going to the YMCA for aquatics and rides the bike.

"Right now it (the hamstring) feels good but I am slowly getting it back. I don't want to push it. I'm going slow to get the leg back in shape. If I tear it again I'd rather do it in the states," said the runner who has already qualified for the state 400.

"I would like to win the 400 states, the all states, and the New England. I like to set my goals really high."

With determination like that all three are realistic goals.

Boys tennis team must win last two matches

by JAMIE POTE

WILMINGTON--With its back-to-back losses to Masconomet and Hamilton-Wenham on Monday and Tuesday afternoons respectively, the Wilmington High School boys tennis team needs to win both of its last two matches in order to go to the state tournament for the second straight season.

"We were so close, I mean that close [to beating] both Masco and Hamilton-Wenham," said head coach Mike Tammaro.

The team is now 5-7 and Tammaro had predicted all season long that his squad was pretty much a .500 team. However, he said even though the chances are not in their favor of getting in, he knows his team won't quite.

"I know the chances are slim, but anything can happen. If we play really well in these two matches I believe we can do it," Tammaro said.

Both matches this week, the team's three singles players Tom Perreault, Keith McLaren (his Tuesday match was suspended because of rain) and fill-in Kevin Riley (for the injured Mike Garbati) all lost very tough and close matches. Both double tandems won however on Monday and Tuesday with Marc Merriman and Mike Gargan as one and Matt Hackett and Hung Nugyen as the other pair.

It is do or die for the tennis team as they will travel to North Andover this Thursday and then to Hamilton-Wenham the following Wednesday, and hopefully their season will continue thereafter.

Six errors cost Wildcats as they lose to Masconomet for the second time

WILMINGTON--For the second time in a week, the Wilmington High School baseball team lost to Masconomet, and the second loss now has them at 8-4 overall and two games behind the Chieftains for first place in the Cape Ann League Large School Division.

Tuesday's 8-5 loss was a crazy game from the get-go, much like the 8-6 loss at their place last Monday. In Tuesday's game played at WHS, the Cats made six errors as well as many mental errors as that was the biggest difference.

"We haven't played since last Thursday and I think that had a big effect on us as we didn't get going until the fourth inning or so," said head coach Dick Scanlon. "They are a good team, there pitcher is good, but we gave them this win today. It was too little too late for us. They played on Saturday and yesterday and that helps, I think the lay-off hurt us."

Masco jumped out to a 6-0 lead through the first four innings off of starter Lee Trimarchi. Agressive base running and mistakes by the Wilmington defense eluded to most of the six runs. Masco scored one run in the first inning on a pick-off move in which runners at the corners were off on the throw and the Cats could have had the lead runner at the plate, but a double clutch hesitation throw canceled that thought.

In the second inning, the first two batters reached on an error and a walk and they were moved up a base by a sacrifice bunt. With one out, Masco decided to go for the suicide squeeze and it was successful as not only did the runner from third score, but so did the one from second mostly because of a high throw to first base from Trimarchi that had Chris DiJulia dancing to find the bag.

With one out in the top of the third, Masco added another run as Shawn Graves roped a fastball deep over the left center fence for a solo homerun to make it 4-0. Two singles and a sacrifice fly had Masco up 5-0 after the first three innings.

A bad throw on a pickoff at third base in the top of the fourth caused Masco to go ahead by a touchdown at 6-0, but the Cats didn't fall down.

In the bottom of the fifth inning, Dick Gillis led off for the Cats. The Masco coach was telling his outfielders to shift to right field and Gillis took advantage of that as he laced a double down the left field line to get things rolling. Dick's brother Tim followed with a single and Wilmington had runners at the corners with no one out. After an out, Trimarchi helped out his own cause with a single to left to score Dick Gillis to break the ice. After a second strikeout of the inning, Billy Harrison loaded the bases with an infield single for Sean Kerrigan. Kerrigan who was batting well over .600 before this game, continued his hot streak with a three-run triple just inside the right field line to make it a game at 6-4. Eric McKenna followed with a double to center and Wilmington now trailed 6-5 after five.

Masconomet got things going again in the top of the sixth with a walk and a single which forced Scanlon to lift Trimarchi in favor for junior Ryan Harrison. Trimarchi didn't pitch bad, as he gave up eight runs with only three earned on nine hits, while walking seven, but he should have been out of several of those longer innings a lot earlier.

Anyway, with two on and no outs in the top of the sixth, a throwing error allowed one runner to score for Masco and that really hurt the Cats. With runners at second and third now with no outs and down by two, McKenna saved what could have been a real ugly inning. A deep fly ball went into the right center gap and McKenna, who is still bothered by a injured knee, raced and dived to make a sensational diving catch. One run scored, but the runner on second was called out for leaving early and Harrison finished up by getting out of the inning with one of his two strikeouts. Masco now led 8-5 going to the last of the sixth.

With one out, Tim Gillis singled to get things going for the Cats in the home half of the sixth. DiJulia followed with a base hit of his own. Trimarchi hustling all of the way, kept things going for the Cats as he stayed out of a double play on his grounder to the mound (that followed by a long argument by the Masco coach). Now with runners at the corners and two outs, Masco was able to get out of the jam as Phil Bates flew out to left field.

Ryan Harrison sent the Chieftains down in order in the top of the seventh to finish off his two perfect two innings of work and in the bottom half of that inning Wilmington still had some life. With one out, Sean Kerrigan's hard single off the pitcher landed him on first as he now is batting close to .700 for the season. McKenna walked to send the tying run to the plate, but a pop up and a strikeout ended the day for the Cats as Masco won it, 8-5.

"We didn't play well today, but we still have eight games left to play and there is plenty of time to catch them," Scanlon said.

On Thursday, Trimarchi pitched a brilliant game as the Cats beat Lynnfield 3-2 at WHS. Lynnfield scored an unearned run in the first inning, but the Cats came right back with two in their home half thanks to a two-run single by Dick Gillis. Tim Gillis scored the game winner the next inning as he crossed the plate on a triple by Billy Harrison.

Trimarchi went the distance giving up two unearned runs on two hits, while walking seven and striking out eight.

On Thursday of this week, Wilmington travels to North Andover for another big game. They don't return home until Sunday, May 25th against Newburyport in the Wilmington Tournament held annually on Memorial Day Weekend.

Mullins finished softball season

WILMINGTON-- Freshman Jennifer Mullins of Wilmington recentiy concluded her first season as a member of the Fitchburg State softball team.

Mullins finished the year by batting .300 in the 18 games she played. Most of those games she started at third base. Mullins also accrued five runs scored, eight rbi and belted five doubles her .425 slugging percentage was second best on the team.

The Falcons finished the season at 11-25 overall, 4-10 in the MASCAC.

Under 9B boys soccer team leads traveling action

WILMINGTON--Having claimed the 1996 Division 4A Fall championship, the Wilmington Boys under 9B soccer team was placed upwards and is converting in Division 3B for the current 1997 spring season.

So far, the keen competition has not halted Coach Chuck Karalekas' Wilmington Express, as the Wildcats have come out of the gate with three straight victories.

The season initiated at the friendly confines of Shawsheen Field against Burlington. Though the weather was quite damp and dismal, it was nothing but sunshine as Wilmington raced to a 7-1 win over a game, but out matched Burlington team. The highlight of the game was the five goal performance of P.J. Russo, who took passes from five different players and banged them all home.

In the last minute of play, Sean Murphy laid a lead pass to Rocco Puccio, who fed a cutting Russo for the opening score. Five minutes later, Russo scored again on a left-footed tip in of a Chris Crosby indirect kick, and the home team was up 2-0. Tory Karalekas then took a feed from Justin Patrie and lofted a shot over the goalie's head and it was 3-0.

Catching Wilmington in a celebration mode, Burlington did not quit and cut the margin to 3-1 on a quick score. It was then Rocco to the rescue as he banged home two more goals before halftime, one assisted by Scott Sferrazza, and the other was unassisted. It remained 5-1 at the break.

The second half saw up and down action, but with ten minutes to go, Wilmington went up 6-1 when Karalekas found a streaking Russo with a nice pass that capped off PJ's big day. Sean Murphy closed out the scoring parade in the final two minutes with an unassisted goal that accounted for the final 7-1 tally.

Net minding duties were shared by Josh Mayo, Kevin McDonough, Chris Crosby and Scott Sferrazza.

The next game on the agenda was a road show at Hanscom Field to face the base's #1 team. This game was controlled by Wilmington in the field position category, but failure by the forwards to finish off plays combined with a stellar performance by the Hanscom goalie kept the game close throughout. Still, the Wildcats managed to grab a 2-1 victory as they clamped down on the defensive end, and stopped Hanscom's attack.

The opening goal of the game occurred in the last half when Justin Patrie knocked in a rebound off a Brian Bolger shot that was set up by a Tony Karalekas pass.Just before halftime,Wilmington made it 2-0 when Scott Sferrazza kicked a nifty pass to Sean Murphy, who blasted a goal past a stunned Hanscom goalie.

In the second half, things got tight as Hanscom broke out and airlifted a shot high above the oustretched hands of Sferrazza and it was suddenly a 2-1 game. However, the Wildcats' solid defense held on and Chris Crosby, Kevin McDonough, and Sferrazza did yeoman jobs in the goal.

In the third game, the Wildcats invaded Medford to face the pre-season favorite on their home turf. In one of the most exciting games ever played, the two teams battled like two heavyweights slugging it out.

The game saw several action packed plays, great passing, tremendous goal tending, and rock solid defenses. Wilmington won the game 1-0 on a last half goal by Sean Murphy, with Brian Bolger assisting Bolger played the "game of his life" as he continually broke up the Medford attack in midfield.

It was truly a team shutout as Murphy, Bolger, PJ Russo, Tony Karalekas, Josh Mayo, Rocco Puccio and Justin Patrie were all over the field making huge play after huge play. Their efforts combined with Chris "The Claven" Crosby and Scott "Stonewall" Sferrazza's goal tending was a real gem to watch.

It as truly meant to be a victory when in the last five minutes, Medford hit a punt and missed a direct kick. The game ended and as the jubilant Wildcats were celebrating their gigantic victory - the skies opened up and it thundered and lightened (some things are just meant to be).

Under 9A girls

Wilmington 2 Medford 0

WILMINGTON--The Wilming- ton Girls Under 9A youth soccer team traveled to Medford for its first away game against the always tough Medford A team. Wilmington was ready for the challenge and used its outstanding speed and passing to pressure the Medford defense.

The forward line of Christina Luciano, Taryn Martiniello, and Samantha Canning were flying by Medford's defenders and putting the ball on goal. Katie Bolger and Amanda Miles kept Wilmington's end clear for keeper Danielle O'Shea. The offensive charge continued as Kelley Lemke broke up the play in Medford's zone and passed up to Erin Magee who fired a shot by Medford's keeper for the first goal of the game.

The second half opened with Medford pressing for a tying score, but unable to penetrate the strong defense led by Alicia Faulkner, Ashley Bruno, and Katelyn Maggio. Goalkeeper Katie Bolger closed the door and prevented Medford from getting on the scoreboard at all. Wilmington was able to take advantage of Medford's all out attack for another score. Mallory DeRosa gained control of a loose ball and passed up to Danielle O'Shea whose shot was blocked but a hustling Kelley Lemke fired in the rebound for the last goal of the game to seal Wilmington's 2-0 victory.

Wilmington vs Burlington

The next challenge came from a scrappy Burlington team who traveled to Wilmington determined to come away with a victory. Burlington's fast start resulted in a quick score for the visitors. Trailing by one, Wilmington tightened its defense. Katie Bolger, Ashley Bruno and Alicia Faulkner, supported by Danielle O'Shea's goal tending, turned away any further Burlington advances. Next, Wilmington's offense paced by the hustle of Erin Magee and Kelley Lemke pressured Burlington's defense until Mallory DeRose banged a bouncing ball into the net for the tying score. The goal energized the entire team as forwards Amanda Miles, Taryn Martiniello, and Christina Luciano kept the play in Burlington's end for the rest of the half.

Wilmington stayed on the attack as the second half opened. With their end secure in the hands of keeper Katie Bolger, both forwards and defenders charged upfield trying for the go ahead score. Samantha Canning and Katelyn Maggio kept the pressure on Wilmington's all out play finally paid off as Alicia Faulkner delivered the ball to Kelley Lemke who put it by the Burlington keeper for the game winning goal.

Under 9A boys

WILMINGTON--The Wilmington Youth Soccer boys Under 9A team shook off the sting of a pair of losses and returned to its winning ways Saturday with a 2-0 blanking of visiting Winchester.

Back home on the friendly turf of Shawsheen Field after road defeats at the hands of Waltham and Concord, the Wilmington squad's turned up the offensive engine early.

The front line of Dennis Fiumara, Stephen Potcner and Jeff Youngclaus came out on fire, displaying excellent hustle and communication. When the speedy Potner got the ball at midfield he made a beeline for the goal but stayed patient and made a beautiful pass to Dennis "the hustling" Fiumara who banged it into the net.

Zack Ungvarsky played a tremendous first half in goal, snatching a rocket of a shot off a ball in the box to foil a pair of charging Winchester attackers.

Defenders Raymond Gravallese, Zack Mayo and Brian Sullivan provided more than able assistance to Ungvarsky, sweeping the defensive end for loose balls and supporting the attack to maintain a 1-0 lead at the half.

Wilmington's defense went into the game shorthanded. Solid defender and goalkeeper Brian Wilson is lost for the season after breaking his arm in a bicycle accident. But with Wilson cheering from the sidelines, one of his fellow Big Bad Brians, Brian Caira, showed what the Wilmington defense can do.

Taking control of the ball in his own end, Caira launched a counter attack and pushed the ball upfield. Spying an open Gravallese, he hit him with a laser like pass. Gravallese zeroed in on the net from the top of the box and put a shot low into the far corner.

Back in goal, Jimmy DaSilva picked up the solid performance where Ungvarsky left off. The sure handed DaSilva jumped on some dangerously loose balls and made a series of sparkling saves, including a point blank blast labeled for the back of the net.

After piloting waves of attack on offense in the first half, Timmy Kent moved back on defense and joined Mayo, Caira and Potcner in playing tough, physical D that warded off late rushes by a talented Winchester squad.

Offensive support of the defense and the reverse paid off big time for the Wilmington team.

Under ten boys

WILMINGTON--The Wilmington ten and under boys youth soccer team remains undefeated, winning at home Mothers' Day weekend 2-0.

It was a typical cold and damp day for May, but Wilmington was sizzling as it dominated the visitors from Everett.

Goaltenders Brad Goldblatt and Brenden Sheehan were stellar in goal, frustrating all Everett's drives toward the home net and shutting out the opposition. Nicholas Barrett, Michael Auciello and Benjamin Mercier presented an imposing Blue defense while Jonathan Cullen, Robert Mahoney, Kevin Robillard and Daniel Patterson kept the constant pressure for the Blue offense.

Wilmington goals were scored by Matthew Phaup assisted both times by Michael LeBrecque. Overall, the win was a result of team play, with great passing and aggressive play by all.

Under 10-6 boys

WILMINGTON--The Wilmington U10-6 youth soccer team is becoming unstoppable! Only eight members of the team were able to travel to Waltham to defend our winning record, but these eight young men were up for the challenge. Working with only two substitutes meant a lot of playing time for the players involved, and they gave 100 percent effort for the entire 50 minutes of the game.

Wilmington came out hard and fast. Realizing that fatigue may play a factor later in the game, they knew that they needed to score quickly. Michael Adams was the first to put the ball into the net for Wilmington. This young man played with the same intensity during the first minutes as he did the last. His never say die attitude carried over to his teammates, who all truly played their hearts out. Mark Walsh, utilized as both a forward and a defender, was next to score for his team. On the front line, Jesse Belding's crisp passing was key to many of our offensive drives. Jesse was responsible for an earlier assist and then a second assist for Richard Barry to give Wilmington a 3-0 lead at the half.

Wilmington kept the pressure on the Waltham side of the field the entire time. First half goalie Brian Dalton and second half goalie Bryan Raposo had little to do in net, but were powerful when they had field time.

Bryan Raposo was part of a vital defensive squad that kept the play out of their goalie's zone. Brian Dalton kept the ball driving toward the Waltham goal during his time as a forward.

Patrick Storey hustled continuously, never giving Waltham a chance to shoot on net. Sean MacPherson, also played both defensive and offensive positions, was impressive in both areas. Sean narrowly missed capitalizing on several scoring opportunities, keeping the Waltham goalie working until the final whistle.

Watching the constant hustle of players like Patrick Storey, Richard Barry, Bryan Dalton and Michael Adams, one would never know that these players had little rest throughout the match. And the dual position efforts of Mark Walsh, Sean MacPherson, Jesse Belding and Bryan Raposo are further examples of what a strong and well rounded team that these boys compile. And, so far, that is proving to be an unbeatable combination!

The final score was Wilmington 3 - Waltham 0.

Under 10 A girls

WILMINGTON-- Midway through the season the Wilmington girls U10A team remains undefeated, routing Reading, 8-0 in a makeup game on Thursday, May 8 and smothering Somerville, 5-1 on the following Saturday. The shooting was fast and furious, the playmaking coordinated and on target as the Lady Wildcats dominated both games.

Many of the girls displayed their solid team skills with scoring in the Reading game shared by Caitlin Foley, Debbie Lyons (two), Caitlin McNabb (two), Jackie Rideout (two) and Nicole Sauve. In the game against Somerville, Celine DeMaggio and Erin Cahill provided key assists in the goals racked up by scorers Jackie Rideout (two), Caitlin Foley, Julia Leverone and Debbie Lyons.

Terrific defense by Jackie Spry, Julia Leverone and keeper Stephanie Ramsdell have virtually shut down opponents, allowing only three goals in five games.

Boys under 10A

WILMINGTON--After winning their first two games of the spring season 4-1 against Lincoln and 5-0 against Billerica, the Wilmington Boys Under 10A Soccer team squared off against the also undefeated Winchester team. Wilmington lost a hard fought battle 1-0.

Winchester scored early in the first half and made it standup as it withstood rush after rush and shot after shot by the Wilmington forwards. Eric Raposo and Joe Mayo were solid in net as were defensive standouts Matt Jeannette and Robbie Gillis. Brenden Strem, Dan Reed, Mark Giordano, Chuck Courtois and Greg Phillips pounded them to no avail.

The following Saturday the boys journeyed to Westford where they found themselves in another tough game. This one though had a happy ending as the boys in blue eeked out a 2-1 win.

Matt Jeannette put Wilmington on the board first with a blast from about 35 feet out that found the upper corner of the net that was all the scoring in the first half.

Although Wilmington was outplaying them and keeping the ball in the offensive zone, Westford scored on a quick shot from the right side of the net midway through the second half to tie the game at one goal apiece. Then with about two minutes left in the game the boys efforts and hard work were rewarded.

Mark Giordano took the ball down the right side of the field and faked around the Westford defender to break in two on one with Chuck Courtois. Giordano blasted a shot that the goalie stopped but could not hold on to as Courtois was there to bang in the rebound for the game winner.

Eric Raposo was a force on defense as he continually frustrated Westford's forwards by breaking up plays and taking the ball away. Joey Mayo and Greg Phillips were solid in net, and just as solid when they were at the forward position. Dan Reed and Robbie Gillis were all over Westford as they had some great scoring chances that the Westford goalie stopped.

The boys finished the first month of the season with a three and one record. Way to go!!

Boys under 10B

WILMINGTON--The Wilmington Boys Under-10 B team turned a tough loss into a learning experience and bounced back Saturday for a hard earned 1-0 victory over visiting Westford.

Just a week after suffering a 6-1 beating on the road in North Reading, the Wilmington defense turned things around to turn in a shutout.

From the get-go this game was a battle. Both teams played intense end-to-end soccer.

Wilmington showed early on it would put its opportunities to use. On a pair of consecutive corner kicks Sean Wilson gave the Westford keeper fits, swinging the corner kick dead-on into the box. While neither play produced a goal, it was clear Wilmington would mount an attack.

Opportunistic play did put Wilmington on the board a short time later when the front line scooped a ball that squirted loose at midfield and charged ahead. Motoring down the center of the field, Matt Stewart saw a wide open Scott Hanson and pushed the ball out to him on the wing. Hanson collected the ball in stride and banged it into the far corner of the Westford net.

Very strong positional play was the hallmark of this performance by Wilmington as the host continued to put pressure on the Westford goal from all sides. Justin O'Neil, Mike Vassallo, Kyle Patrie and Chris Murray joined Stewart and Hanson in making life miserable for Westford defenders.

At the defensive end Wilmington was practically impregnable. Big John Bell, Sean Burns, Wilson and Hanson were pillars of granite against the Westford attack while playing the ball back up to the offense nicely.

Pat "The Cat" Contrada had an outstanding game on defense, using his quickness to get to dangerous loose balls and turning offensive thrusts by Westford into counter attacks for Wilmington.

In goal for Wilmington, Patrie was perfect in the first half and Burns was flawless in the second as they teamed up to whitewash. Both keepers did a terrific job gobbling up rebounds and getting to balls in the box.

Localites attend convention

Old-Time Radio Remembered...

By DON YOUNG

For old-time radio buffs, it was a return to the days when you were a kid, when there was nothing any better for entertainment, adventure and imagination than the radio shows of the 30's, 40's and 50's.

The event was the 21st annual Friends of Old Time Radio Convention, a three-day affair staged at the Holiday Inn North in Newark,NJ, and it featured special convention guests who actually starred in those golden-age-of-radio programs.

There were panel discussions on everything from radio politics, science fiction and premium offerings to archives, collections and Canadian Radio and the CBC.

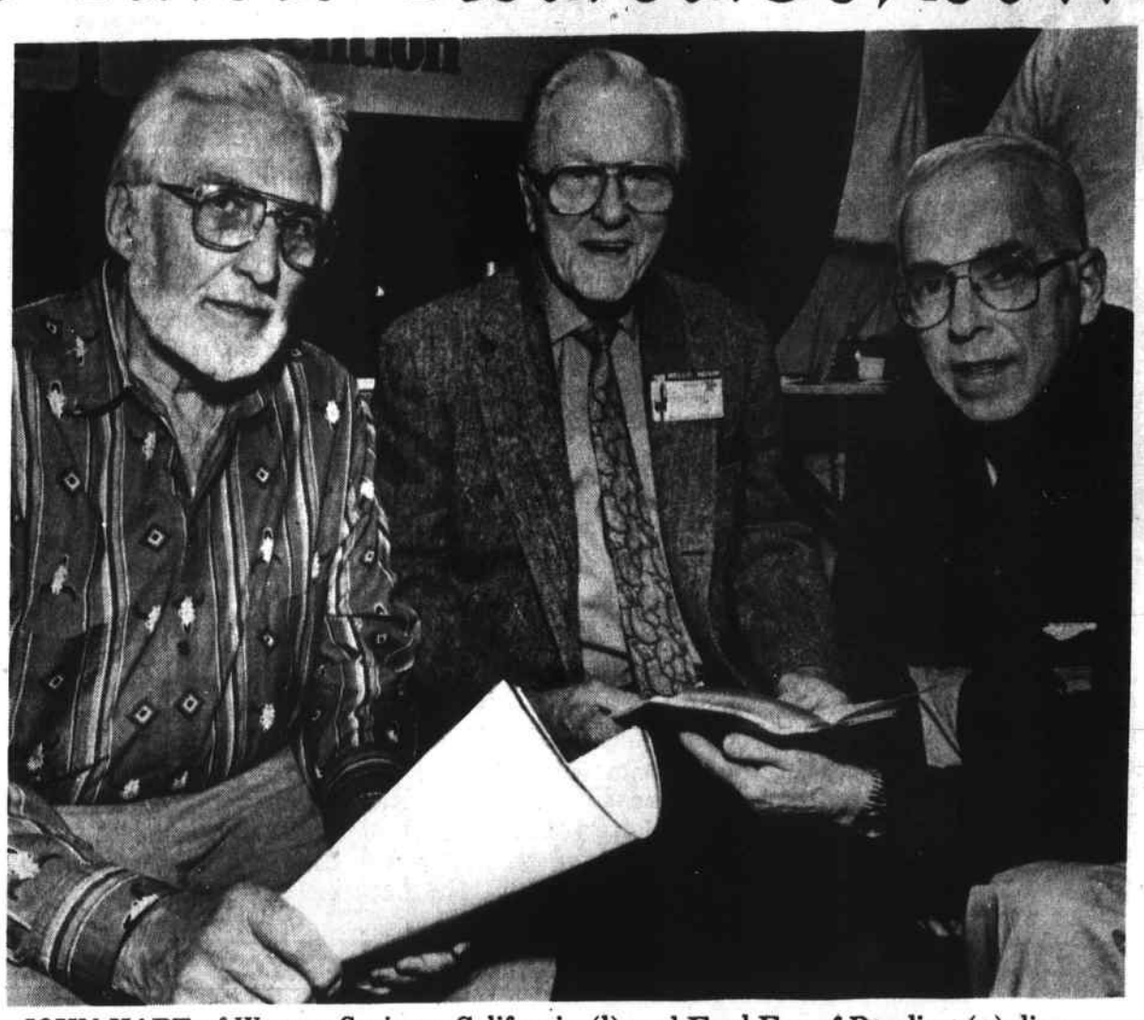

Also, various workshops, banquets, live re-creations of several classic radio shows, and a host of dealers from around the country offering everything from thousands of catalogued audio tape cassettes, photographs and comic books; to toys, video tapes and movie memorabilia to stagger the mind.

In short, it was a fantasy land for young or old nostalgia buff, or interested newcomer.

As we learned, similar conventions are held throughout the year around the country.

And least you think the purchase and collection of old-time radio memorabilia is confined to the conventions, know that there are countless numbers of dealers, publications, catalogs, fan newsletters and clubs, and even

Folks have you noticed how in almost every newspaper announcement of a wedding the words describe everything about the bride. It tells about her gown, her bridesmaids, the schools she attended etc. etc.

The Groom? It tells us that he, Showed Up. Well when my friend, Frank Hogan gets married, the newspaper announcement I'll write will probably reads, "Frank Hogan became the Groom of Lucy Bowling.

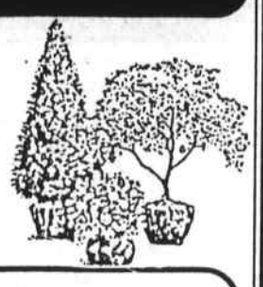

Frank wore a two-piece blue suit. The trousers had a one inch cuff around the bottom of each trouser leg. His suit coat has a belt in the back. His tie colors looked like a pizza with everything on it. His Italian made shoes were, one left one and a right one. Oh yes, the Bride Showed Up."

A Musical Les Misérables

JEAN VALJEAN AS PORTRAYED by Gregory Calvin Stone in the Boston production of Les Miserable at the Colonial Theatre until July 5.

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Les Miserables
Colonial Theatre
106 Boylston Street
Boston, MA
(617) 426-9366
Tickets $20-$70 available at the box office or by calling Ticketmaster (617) 931-2787.

There is one guarantee about the Cameron Mackintosh presentation of "Les Miserables" presently at Boston's Colonial Theatre. That is by the end of the show, only those people with the tightest control of their feelings will have dry eyes.

The strength of the actors singing and acting abilities combined with the book and music of Alain Boublil and Claude-Michel Schonberg (as adapted to English by Herbert Kretzmer with additional material by James Fenton) takes the audience through every emotion available.

The story is based on Victor Hugo's powerful "Les Enfants Miserables" which is set in pre-revolutionary France. It follows the life of the paroled convict Jean Valjean (Gregory Calvin Stone), prisoner number 24601, as he rises to become a wealthy, important and caring person constantly haunted by his past in the form of former prison warden prison guard, now prefect of police, Javert (Todd Alan Johnson). The hunt is on because Valjean broke his parole by throwing away the yellow "ticket of leave" that he must show to any that ask for his papers.

The plot obfuscates good and evil as we watch Jean Valjean, metamorphous from a common criminal that only stole to feed a sister's child into Monsieur Madeleine, a man of bearing who tries to right the wrongs of the world. On the other hand the upright Javert continuously commits the sin of pride as he chases down those that would break the laws of the land, therefore of God.

The pairs lives continuously cross and Valjean is able to escape with his freedom until one day the tables are turned and he is able to free Javert from the bonds of revolutionaries who have captured him.

Javert is so caught up in Valjean's mercy that he commits suicide rather than face trying to capture his lifelong prey again.

Love is a strong theme throughout the show and is shown in the love that Valjean has for the young Cosette (Elizabeth Lundberg as child and Kate Fisher as the adult), the illegitimate daughter of a factory worker that Madeleine has saved from arrest.

It is also shown in the relationship between Cosette and Marius (Rich Affannato) a young student/revolutionary who is injured on the barricades as he fights the French soldiers. He is saved by Valjean, who has recognized the love between the two people.

The show would be overpowering if it were not for the use of the villainous couple, the Thenardiers (Tregony Shepard and J.P. Dougherty). In a Shakespearean fashion, the pair are presented as clowns and provide comic relief throughout from the time they are introduced as the innkeepers into whose abusive care young Cosette was placed.

The pairs comedic timing is perfectly played against each other.

In a unique move, the producers have invested $4.2 million in the road show replicating the costly and elaborate set that is used on Broadway. Les Miserables will be at the Colonial Theater until July 5. It is a must see and is superbly better the second time around.

The stark set is beautifully offset by the opulence of the Colonial's traditional proscenium stage. The music is outstanding. The acting superb.

Annette Fundraiser May 18

WAKEFIELD - Tickets for the "Joining Hands for Annette" benefit luncheon at the Outback Steakhouse in Peabody are on sale and a good meal is promised.

The luncheon will take place at the Outback on Route 114 in Peabody on Sunday, May 18 from 11:45 to 1:30 p.m. The price is $35 per-person with all proceeds going directly to the Joining Hands fund which is seeking a bone marrow donor for two year-old Annette Lysan.

"We are thankful for the support of the Outback Steakhouse, which is donating and hosting the luncheon," explained Annette's grandfather Jim Scott. "This event will be the largest fundraiser for the Joining Hands for Annette marrow donor drive. The restaurant's donating and hosting the lunch is a rich example of corporate volunteerism at its best."

The funds collected from the luncheon will go to offset the cost of testing a hoped for 2,000 donor volunteers at a special testing drive on Saturday, May 31, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Charbonneau Fieldhouse at Wakefield Memorial High School, 60 Farm Street. The marrow donor is needed so that Annette can receive the transplant she needs to cure the disease, Myelodysplasia, a form of bone cancer that has beset the child.

The disease leaves Annette's marrow unable to produce enough normal blood cells and often converts into a very difficult form of Leukemia.

Even if a perfect match is not found for Annette, the daughter of Wakefield residents Paul Lysan and Leslie Scott-Lysan, the drive might find a match for someone else in the National Marrow Donor Program (NMDP) registry.

Because of recent federal cutbacks to the Joining Hands committee needs to raise as much as $70,000 for the testing.

Anyone who cannot attend the luncheon but would like to help may send a tax deductible donation to NMDP/Julie Scott, P.O. Box 1827, Wakefield, MA 01880 or donations may be brought to any branch of The Savings Bank in Wakefield, Lynnfield and Andover. Please make the checks payable to the National Marrow Donor Program with a notation to Annette Lysan.

For more information on volunteering to help the drive please call James Scott at the above telephone number.

For more information on being a marrow donor contact the Dana Farber Cancer Institute, local coordinators for the drive, at (617) 632-3660.

About The Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

A clay feat

Reading has its fill

"The 200-acre landfill site is not developed enough at this time to put the space up for sale, a representative of a contracted development consulting firm said," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Further preparation must be completed before the town can consider advertising requests for proposals (RFP) from prospective developers, Stephen Thomas of Vanesse Hangen & Brustlin, Inc. (subcontracted by Camp Dresser & McKee, a firm the town contracted for the landfill surveying work) told the Business Park Advisory Committee.

"RFPs were scheduled to be sent out in May, after April's Town Meeting, but the advice was to wait until Labor Day."

'In a big way'

"'You only want to offer the site once (please see above). You want to come off the blocks in a big way. You don't want the site to get stale,' Thomas said.

"According to the Business Park's timeline, it would be two years time from the requests for proposals until a 'shovel is in the ground.' Two years is too long, Thomas said, therefore the RFPs should be sent out in September.

"'The most time I've seen is 12 months,' Board of Assessors Chair David Nugent said. 'Who knows where the economy and market will be in two years?'

"In the meantime, the Business Park Advisory Committee has a large mound of preparations at the landfill.

"The landfill must have its proper permits. The sooner this is completed, the more attractive the site is to developers, Thomas said.

"Developers glance at possible sites constantly. Because Reading's site is a landfill, proper material must be prepared to attract developers' eyes Reading's way.

"A Due Diligence Report, which would be compiled by Thomas' firm if contracted, neatly chronicles all of the documentation accumulated about the landfill.

"The report would include environmental and traffic studies, any prior or current permitting, costs for capping and other environmental projects, the Homart material, conceptual site plans and other documentation. "

'Selling a dream'

"'For those 200 acres, we have 60 plans for the site because we've walked it so many times,' Thomas said (please see above).

"Vanesse, Hangen & Brustlin, Inc. uses computer assisted drawing programs to formulate possible landfill developments.

"A Due Diligence Report assisted in selling a landfill site in Framingham, and Thomas believes a similar document would be useful for Reading's space.

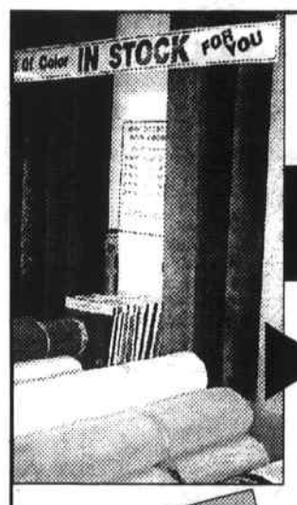

"'You're selling a dream,' Nugent said. 'It has to be concise because they (developers) look at hundreds of them a year.'

"The committee can expect to receive many RFPs, Thomas said. The market is extremely hot right now, and Reading is in a good position for quality developers, he added.

"Possible grants to ease costs to the town could be accessed, Thomas told the committee. The town could apply for a grant to create roadways on the site. The town could also create an incentive tax break for prospective developers by applying for blighted consideration and becoming an Economic Target Area.

"The Central Artery-Tunnel Clay Distribution Program has informed Reading that it has been selected to receive clay for capping. Capping is extremely expensive. This award will save town money."

"About the Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Find out if our new laser correction for nearsightedness can reduce or eliminate your need for glasses
or contacts. You can also learn about RK, another proven, safe and quick technique to correct nearsightedness and astigmatism.

Here's what Tracy says:
"Three years ago, Dr. Horsley corrected my nearsightedness with RK. Since then, no more glasses or their expense. Best thing I ever did for myself."

HORSLEY EYE CLINIC
3 Woodland Road, Stoneham
At Boston Regional Medical Center

Free Evaluation for laser or RK 979-0960

At the Clinic, Laser (PRK) and RK procedures cost much less than elsewhere.
Easy payment plans. Will Horsley, M.D. is a board certified ophthalmologist, highly experienced in RK and PRK. More than 1,500 performed.

The Summit Technology SVS Apex laser is approved to perform Photo-Refractive Keratectomy (PRK) for the correction of mild to moderate myopia (1.5 to 7.0 diopters) in eyes with ≤ 1.5 diopters of astigmatism. Summit Technology's approval is based on clinical trials of more than 1600 eyes together with safety information through 3 years of follow up. Alternatives to PRK are contact lenses, eyeglasses and radial keratotomy. Studies using a 6 mm treatment zone in 341 eyes have found that at 6 months after treatment, uncorrected vision was 20/40 or better in 95% of eyes and 20/20 or better in 66% of eyes. In 7% of eyes, best corrected vision with eyeglasses declined more than one line with none worse than 20/40. Transient implications up to several weeks included pain (24-48 hours), corneal swelling, double vision, feeling something is in the eye, shadow images, light sensitivity, tearing and pupil enlargement. The following adverse effects occured in at least 1% of eyes within 6 months of treatment: night vision difficulty (1%), elevation of intraocular pressure (2%), hazy cornea affecting vision (2%), overcorrection or became farsighted (5%), undercorrection or still nearsighted (6%), mild halo (10%), minor glare (10%). Long term risks of PRK, beyond three years have not been studied. This laser is not indicated to correct high myopia (nearsightedness > 7.0D), astigmatism, or farsightedness.

Middlesex East Sports Athletes & Activities

BY PAUL FEELY

Former Reading Memorial High School baseball standout Jon Cignetti has been making a name for himself this season on the Babson College team, and the hard work paid off. After leading the team to a 20-16 record, a Constitution Athletic Conference championship and a berth in the ECAC New England Tournament, the junior outfielder has been named the CAC Player of the Year.

The 6-2, 195 pound Cignetti put up some amazing offensive numbers in 32 games this year, hitting .491 (53 for 108) with 48 RBIs, 12 doubles, four triples, nine home runs and a .926 slugging percentage, all team bests. Cignetti, who was named CAC Player of the week for April 28, also had three game-winning RBIs, including a ninth inning home run to beat Springfield College in the CAC Championship game. As the team's starting left fielder, he had 42 put outs, one assist and two errors, was three for three on stolen base attempts and had three sacrifices.

"Jon has been far and away our best offensive player this year, putting up offensive numbers that rank among the best in school history," said Babson College coach Frank Millerick, who owns a 106-72 record in five years at the helm and is the CAC Coach of the Year. "He came up with big hits when we needed them, hit for power, and did everything we asked of him this year. His season was the result of great preparation and work and I look forward to having him back next season."

SPORTS SHORTS

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: Here's a question about a sport that doesn't get a whole lot of coverage throughout the year: How much liquid can the 27-inch-high silver America's Cup hold? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•WAKEFIELD'S SCOTT PRICE, who runs as a junior on the UMass-Amherst mens track team, was part of the 4x100 and 4x400 meter school record-breaking relay teams in a recent meet. The team set a record of 41.40 in the 4x100, beating the old mark of 41.74, then beat the 19-year-old 4x400 record with a time of 3:14.32. The previous record was 3:15.4 set in 1978.

•Plymouth State College presented one of its annual Panther Awards to READING'S RYAN OSTERLIND recently. Osterlind earned the men's tennis Panther Award for the second straight year, serving as co-captain and playing in the PSC lineup at No. 3 singles and No. 2 doubles. He tied for the best singles record on the team this season, posting a 7-6 mark and advancing to the finals of the Little East Conference Tournament at No. 3 singles.

•The Third Annual Run For The River will take place on May 31 at 10 am at the Bradley Palmer State Park in Topsfield. Proceeds will benefit the Ipswich River Watershed Association, and are applied to programs at the Ipswich River.

There will be awards for the men's and women's overall winners, as well as for kids, teens, masters, and seniors. Registration is $12. Call 1-508-356-8939 for more information.

•Need a clue or two to help solve the trivia mystery? It wouldn't be very popular at a party.

•While playing for the UMass-Lowell softball team, TEWKSBURY'S PAMELA MCNEIL had three hits in an 11-1 win over Franklin Pierce, while also knocking in three runs. She is also a recent NECC Rookie of the Week, and went 5 for 8 with two RBI in a recent sweep of Bryant.

•Two one-week summer basketball camps will be held at North Reading High School from 6-8 pm in two sessions: June 16-20 for boys only, and June 23-27 for girls only. The camps are for students entering grades 2-4 as of September, 1997. The camp fee is $40, and will include a camp t-shirt. For more information call Bob at 1-508-664-1484.

•Reading's ANDREA COMEAU recorded a first-place finish to lead the UMass-Amherst women's track team to a second-place finish at a recent five-team meet at Southern Connecticut.

•ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The 27-inch high silver America's Cup can't hold any liquid, because it's bottomless. Congratulations to those who answered the question correctly, and look for this space next week to find another sports-related trivia question.

•DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports. P.O. Box 240, Reading, MA., 01867, or call Paul at 617-944-2200 between 7 am and 3:30 pm, Monday through Friday. Items can also be faxed at 617-942-0884.

"Kids These Days" art exhibit

The Stoneham Community Art Gallery announced today that it will display the Kids These Days mixed media art exhibit May 16 through May 29. An opening reception will be held from 12:30pm to 3:30pm on Sunday, May 18, 1997 at the Stoneham Community Art Gallery.

The Stoneham Community Art Gallery opening represents the first public viewing on the exhibit which will travel to a number of sites throughout eastern Massachusetts during the year.

The exhibit has been created by a team of teenagers from Stoneham and surrounding communities and is intended to promote positive images of adolescents. Under the creative direction of Carole Urbano and Jackie Holland, a group of teens have compiled a compelling exhibit about teens and their roles in our society.

In addition to using traditional media such as watercolors, oils and photography, the exhibit also incorporates statistical date, audio, and real life memorabilia of adolescence. Among those contributing art work, and photography to the exhibit are a group of 15 art students from Stoneham High School, CASPAR's Protect Teen Health peer-leaders and a number of City Year participants and alumni.

The general public is invited to view the exhibit and bring some token of their own adolescence-a poster, a favorite piece of clothing, an album/CD, a piece of jewelry-(an item they held dear much to the dismay of their parents!) to leave behind with the exhibit. "We really wanted this exhibit to gain a life of its own," said Jackie Holland, the projects director. "By having the public contribute to its content, the display takes on new meaning at each exhibit site."

The Kids These Days exhibit is funded by the Massachusetts Cultural Council as administered by the Stoneham Cultural Council. The Stoneham Community Art Gallery offers a cooperative, non-exclusive, venue through which local artists can display and promote their work. Open Tuesday-Friday 10am to 1pm and Weekends 12pm to 4pm or by appointment, the gallery is located across from the Stoneham Fire Station just outside Stoneham Square.

For additional information, contact: Carole Urbano, Stoneham Community Art Gallery, 8A Central Street, Stoneham, MA 02180, 617-438-5509; urbano@mail.insol.com.

COLLEGE TUITION ASSISTANCE

A conservative estimate of college costs for a full-time student runs from $10,000-$30,000, high cost colleges can run from $40,000-$100,000! Most parents and students think that scholarships are only for the students with excellent grades, low-income families, or the athletically inclined. A small example of the numerous scholarships available to students include: Handicapped Student Scholarships, Members of a Church Scholarships, Scholarships for "C" Students, Veteran Children's Scholarships, Scholarships for Minorities and much, much more.

Though the majority of scholarships are from the Federal Government and are merit and/or need based, billions of dollars are available to students from private sector scholarships. Much of private sector financial aid goes unused because the parents and students do not know how or where to apply.

There are organizations that have spent hundreds of hours in research locating scholarship sources. The U.S. Commission for Scholastic Assistance-College bound is such an organization and supplies the public with over 700 different private scholarships sources.

The scholarship list include the scholarship names, addresses, application deadlines, summaries about the scholarships and the amount the scholarship will pay your child.

Many scholarships pay the entire tuition; others can be applied towards tuition, living expenses, and /or other fees. Most scholarships can be used at junior colleges, career and vocational schools, 4 year colleges, graduate schools, medical and law schools.

For information on obtaining these scholarship lists, send a self-addressed, stamped, business size, #10, envelope to: The U.S. Commission for Scholastic Assistance, P.O. Box 668, O'Fallon, IL 62269.

SMOKE FREE CESSATION CLASS OFFERED

Smoking is known to be the leading cause of preventable death and disease in Massachusetts. Approximately 11,000 residents of our state will die this year from illnesses related to tobacco use; nearly 435,000 Americans die every year from smoking related diseases. In addition to these staggering numbers, an estimated 100 children in Massachusetts will begin smoking every day.

For these reasons, smoking cessation activities have always been an important aspect of focus for Melrose-Wakefield Hospital.

Smokers make up approximately one-third of the population in the communities served by Melrose-Wakefield Hospital. This translates to a staggering 33,000 individuals who could benefit from the smoking cessation efforts.

To attain their goal of helping area residents become smoke free, MWH is offering a Smoke Free Cessation Class designed to meet the needs of individuals trying to quit or have recently quit.

Classes are held on Tuesdays at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital and Thursday at Whidden Memorial Hospital. There is a fee of $45, however, $25 will be reimbursed upon completion of the program.

tion last year, I went up to the head table three times for a generous helping of ice cream and cake. Kathy shouted, "why you blooming idiot! aren't you embarrassed?" "Of course NOT" I replied "I'm going again, I tell them that I'm getting the ice cream and cake for YOU!"

Carmine 'Cowboy' Zacharia was the company cook in the U.S. Airforce stationed in Okinawa. When for two days the men refused to eat the chow, Carmine jumped up on an ammo box and shouted, "Why you bunch of 'CREEPS' don't you know that it's food like this that will win the war?"

"Yes," replied Sgt. Joe D'Ambrosio, "but who the heck is going to get the enemy to eat it?"

Blackie Vega asked Fr. Dan why he had his left arm in a sling? "I slipped in a bathtub and broke by arm." Johnny Ave asked Blackie later, "What's a bathtub?" "How the heck do I know, "Blackie replied, "I'm NOT a Catholic!"

I asked Blackie Vega, "why do you want to borrow money from me?" Blackie said, "Because I'm as broke as a pickpocket in a Nudist Camp."

My cousin Mario DiMino from Brooklyn told me that he and his wife Angelina had a happy marriage. It was 'Living together' that caused a problem.

George Gould told the post master that he has been receiving threatening letters. Mr. Hickey told George, 'It's against the postal laws to send those letters. "Who has been sending to you?" George said, "the Electric Co. The Gas Co. and here's one I got this morning from the Telephone Co."

Folks, do you sometimes get the feeling that we are living in an impersonal world where contact with, 'REAL' people is seldom made? Make a telephone call and a recorded voice tells you, 'If you're calling the mayor's office, PRESS ONE." then, a litany of the options are made without you speaking to a real live person.

Recently a gadget was installed on my gas meter so that it can be read without even getting out of a company car. I really miss my bi-monthly chat with Tony Meriac of Boston Gas. 'Hands-on' and 'inquiry-centered'

"Over the past three years, Summer Street School students have begun using science units by 'Science and Technology for Children (STC),'" notes the Lynnfield "Summer Street Newsletter."

"STC is an elementary curriculum development project of the National Science Resources Center. The goal of STC is to develop an effective hands-on, inquiry-centered elementary science program that will: make science relevant and interesting to students from diverse ethnic and cultural backgrounds; contribute to children's conceptual understanding of the world around them; help children develop scientific reasoning skills and the ability to solve practical problems; foster the development of scientific attitudes in children; provide strategies for assessment of student learning within the instructional process.

"The STC instructional materials are based on the constructivist learning model that emphasizes student-centered activities which build on students' prior knowledge and experiences to develop a conceptual understanding of science. This theory applies the principle that children learn science best in an environment where they make their own discoveries. As a result, children develop posithe North American Radio Archives, a non-profit educational corporation founded in 1972 to serve as a source for the preservation and dissemination of information and material on the rich cultural history of old time radio.

Old-time radio remembered

The convention in New Jersey offered up a host of radio stars of yesteryear who performed live (there was no taping of those earliest shows) in such radio favorites as The Lone Ranger, Superman, the Great Gildersleeve, Sgt. Preston of the Yukon, Captain Midnight, The Aldrich Family, Dragnet, Inner Sanctum, Sam Spade, Jack Armstrong and Mysterious Traveler, just to name a few.

Among them was Reading's own Fred Foy of Lone Ranger fame.

Others included Jackson Beck (announcer for Superman and Mark Trail), Ralph Bell (The Mysterious Traveler, Superstition, and Dimension-X), Eugene Clark (an engineer for the Mutual Broadcasting System), Dick Dudley (announcer for the Archie Andrews Show and many other NBC shows), Jean Gillespie (Alan Young, The Aldrich Family), Clive Rice (of the popular Bobby Benson western series), Margot Stevenson (The Shadow) and a number of writers, casting directors and sound effects artists that were simply amazing (and at times hilarious) to study and enjoy during the live re-creation of several old-time radio shows during that weekend.

Another guest attending the convention was veteran Boston radio and TV host and personality Gene Rayburn, who spoke with warm affection of his years in radio and television, the latter as host and announcer on TV's The Match Game, and The Steve Allen Show.

Foy, a resident of 46 Evergreen Road in Reading, and a popular guest at the conventions, was the deep-voiced and powerful announcer for the Lone Ranger adventure series which aired over the ABC Radio Network from 1933 to 1954 for a total of 3,377 episodes.

"I also did the voice in the opening, middle break, closing and the credits for the television version in the mid 50's all on tape before it was transferred to soundtrack out in California where the filming was done," said Foy.

"Those shows (repeats) are still running in certain markets around the country."

He even played the part of the Lone Ranger for one episode on radio on March 29, 1954.

"As the understudy, I was told I was doing the Lone Ranger for that particular episode when Brace Beemer, then the voice of the Ranger, came down with a bad case of laryngitis," explained Foy.

Many local and area residents will remember Foy when he entertained several hundred fans in person, and thousands more via local cable TV, from the Senior Center on Pleasant Street when the town of Reading was in the midst of celebrating its 350th anniversary in June of 1994.

At that time, Foy held his audience entranced with stories of his and other actor's roles in radio, the commercials, sound effects techniques, and even those rare bloopers where mistakes would be made, or someone would forget a line or (heaven forbid) fall asleep!

"Those shows were broadcast live back then, and being the veterans of radio that we were, and we'd simply fill in for each other, or cover up whatever happened," added Foy. "And things did happen! We just hoped the radio audience didn't notice!"

No one who listened religiously to the adventures of The Lone Ranger can ever forget Foy's spine-tingling openings:

"A fiery horse with the speed of light, a cloud of dust and a hearty Hi Yo Silver! The Lone Ranger!"

"With his faithful Indian companion Tonto, the daring and resourceful masked rider of the plains led the fight for law and order in the early Western United States"

"Return with us now to those thrilling days of yesteryear..."

"From out of the past come the thundering hoofbeats of the great horse Silver! The Lone Ranger rides again!!!"

"Come on, Silver Let's go, big fellow! Hi Yo Silver! Away!!!"

Those words were, and still are, Foy's trademark.

The voice has faded little over the years, despite the passing of more than six decades since radio listeners first heard the cry of "Hi Yo, Silver!"

And as well known as those words are, the man behind the voice is just as humble and gracious and human as you would wish.

Foy was also the announcer for the long-running adventure series Sgt. Preston of the Yukon of the late 50's, and before that the Green Hornet of the late 40's.

He also guest-starred at the 11th annual Old Time Radio & Nostalgia Convention in Cincinnati, Ohio, April 18-19, and the 8th annual Radio Classics Live in Brockton, MA earlier this month.

For those old-time radio buffs, and most particularly the collectors of trivia from the days of the Lone Ranger era, we offer the following.

The first of those 3,377 live episodes on radio was broadcast on January 31, 1933, and the last on September 3, 1954.

Some 2,596 of those were recorded, but unfortunately only about 2,200 have survived the ravages of time. Of those, approximately 600 are currently in circulation through collectors, dealers and various libraries and archives.

The first show to be recorded was episode No. 776 on January 17, 1938.

Following the final live episode on radio in 1954, radio stations throughout the country broadcast reruns for the next two years.

Our thanks for the above information is extended to Fairfield, NJ's Anthony Tollin, an enthusiast/historian of the Golden Age of Radio, and to friend and collector John McCarthy of Winthrop, MA.

Sharing the spotlight with Foy in New Jersey was Warner Springs, California resident John Hart, also of Lone Ranger fame. No stranger to radio, having starred in a number of dramatic shows earlier in his career, Hart appeared as the Lone Ranger in 52 episodes of the television series which signaled his greatest claim to fame. He is, today, as much a gentleman as is Foy.

Another popular guest was the ever-personable Will Hutchins, best known for playing Tom 'Sugarfoot' Brewster in the popular Warner Brothers TV Western from 1957-1961. A resident of Glen Head, NY, he starred in two more series: Hey Landlord (1966) and Blondie (1968) as Dagwood, and guest-starred on such notable series as Gunsmoke, Alfred Hitchcock Presents, Perry Mason, and Love, American Style.

Perhaps the highlights of the convention were the six live recreations of early radio adventures complete with sound effects and music. They included Mysterious Traveler, Bobby Benson, The Canterville Ghost, Mercury Theater of the Air, and two episodes of The Lone Ranger, the latter being the '20th Anniversary Show" which celebrated the creation of the program twenty years earlier, and the broadcasting of the three-thousand, one-hundred and twenty-eighth radio adventure of the Lone Ranger ... a character who now ranks in fame with the likes of Robin Hood and King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table, and whose adventures have enriched the library of Americana.

The convention also scheduled time for attendees to mingle with the guests, share stories and memories, sign autographs and in general show a genuine appreciation of the Golden Age of Radio from those who listened, and enjoyed and remembered.

Victorian fashion mini-course

The Victorian Melrose Society is sponsoring a two-session mini course on Victorian women's fashions on May 14 and May 28 at 7pm at the Beebe House on W. Foster Street in Melrose. The presenter of this illustrated program will be Nancy Rexford, one of the outstanding authorities in the country on historical costume.

She will discuss the total scope of women's apparel during two time periods 1850-1875 and 1875-1900. Included in the presentation will be the styles of different social strata for different occasions, from daytime wear to appropriate attire for lectures, teas, and balls. In addition to a stylistic analysis of the clothes and accessories there will be elaborations on the materials, trim and structure of the various apparel which will include shoes, purses, hats, capes and stoles.

Attendees will be encouraged to bring garments and accessories for analysis and discussion as part of the course. The charge for the course will be $25 for members of the Society and $35 for non-members. Light refreshments will be served. For more information, to be put on the mailing list or to join the Society, call Barbara Gilchrist, 665-9672.

The lecturer, Nancy Rexford, is currently consultant to over 15 museums and historical organizations most notably in Connecticut, York County and Chester County in Pennsylvania, and in Chicago. Local organizations include the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities and the National Society of Colonial Dames (Boston). She has also served as the Curator of Costume in Historic Northampton. She is author of an upcoming publication, "Women's Clothing in American: 1795-1930".

REAL ESTATE SAMPLER

This Week... North Reading

Rambling post and beam colonial

You'll swear you are in Vermont at a quiet, country inn. Actually, just around the bend from quaint North Reading center, and 1/4 mile from Lynnfield, you will find this captivatingly different home, accented with elegant stone walls, three farmer's porches, 3 car garage, small barn and rustic guest cottage complete with kitchenette, 1/2 bath and wine cellar.

A warm and inviting countryinn atmosphere is created, in part, by the exposed beams throughout much of the interior, along with lots of oak, ceramic tile, skylights and some beautifully finished wide pine floors.

The kitchen boasts virtually every modern amenity, from the elegant, cherry Quaker Maid cabinets, extra counter space on the center island, two Jennaire cook tops, wall oven, fun, concealed pop-up shelf for mixer and instant hot water dispenser. A cozy breakfast nook with its own bay window makes this an inviting spot for family gatherings.

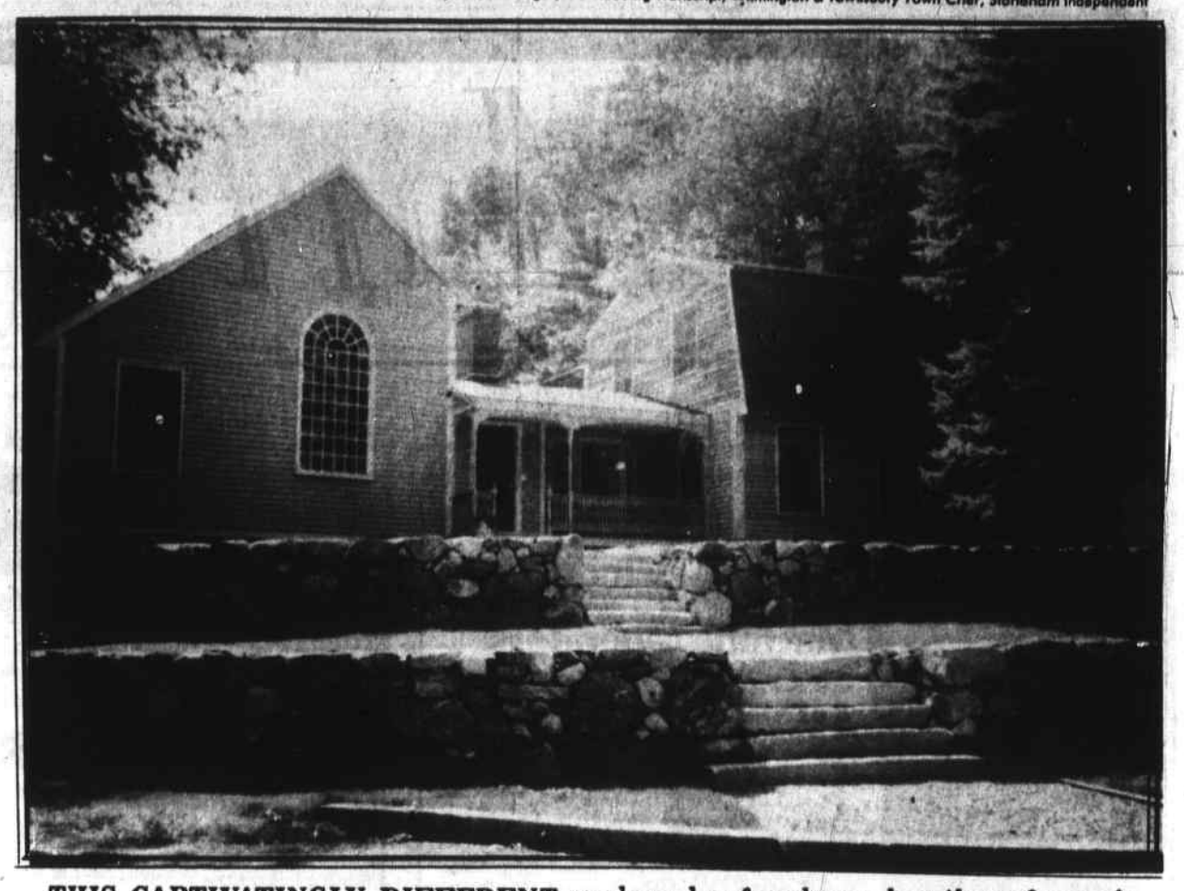

Additional first floor features include a family room, dining room, complete with its own fireplace, a spacious office, guest room, separate laundry room, full bath and greatroom

The second floor features a sun splashed master bedroom suite with his and hers cedar closets and a pretty pedestal sink in the master bath. One step up brings you to a hallway leading to three more bedrooms and another full bath.

Truly, the most spectacular room in the house is the lofty, two story greatroom with massive beams in the cathedral ceiling. Gleaming hardwood floors,a huge arched window and a state of the art Vermont Castings woodstove custom designed to look like a fireplace with brick front, oak mantle and glass doors make this a great spot to keep warm on those chilly New England nights.

Surely this home that nestles on 11 acres offers endless possibilities for growing children and vegetables, or perhaps someday creating your own family compound.

Offered at $459,900, it is listed with Judy Bernard, Re/Max All Stars. Please come to our Open House on Sunday, May 18, from 1 to 4 pm.

THIS CAPTIVATINGLY DIFFERENT modern day farmhouse has three farmer's porches, a 3 car garage and all the charm of a New England inn.

Decorator Tip

Cover what you can't afford to replace. An ordinary dining table can be revitalized with a tablecloth in a vibrant pattern; the dining chairs can be simply slipcovered. If your sofa looks old and tired, add a tailored slipcover in a crisp stripe or check, or just throw a beautiful blanket of textile over the back. If you can't pull up your faded wall-to-wall carpet, cover it with inexpensive sisal or interesting, small area rugs. A trick as simple as recovering old, worn pillows with a few yards of new fabric may make your old furniture come back to life.

Home Improvement industry booming

The home improvement industry is booming throughout the nation, as today's homeowner is choosing to remodel instead of buying new. In fact, by the year 1999, consumer remodeling will skyrocket to $112.3 billion annually, according to the Home Improvement Research Institute.

If you're planning on giving your home a "facelift" this years, consider the following tips, brought to you by the "outdoor building experts" who produce Kodiak preserved wood, an innovative new outdoor building product:

Determine how long you plan on living in your home. Unless you plan on staying there for years, try to make improvements that not only add comfort and convenience for you now, but also increase your home's future resale value. For instance, a deck typically recoups 71 percent of its original construction cost.

Consider how the addition will hold up over the long term. Choose quality building products that will look good years from now. This is especially important when choosing outdoor building products.

Study your local real estate market to be sure you're making improvements that homebuyers want and will pay for. In a recent survey by the National Association of Home builders, 83 percent of potential new home buyers surveyed said they would like their new home to have a deck off the back of the house, including 29 percent who said a deck was "essential". Other renovations rated high for their return on investment include bathroom and kitchen renovations, as well s interior remodeling.

Understand that while you may think certain additions are an asset to your home, others may not. Examples include swimming pools, hot tubs and sliding glass doors. Potential buyers may not see past the maintenance work required with pools and spas; and sliding glass doors may be perceived as a risk where security is a concern.

To keep maintenance to a minimum-not only for you, but also for the next owner of your home-choose materials that are easy to clean and care for.

Manage your money and develop a working budget. During a remodeling project, most homeowners will add items as the project develops. A reserve equal to 10 to 20 percent of what you expect to spend should cover these changes.

If hiring a professional, interview several builders, landscape and building architects, and interior designers. Look at their portfolios and talk with friends and colleagues for referrals. Also keep in mind that many lumber yards offer expert design assistance and even precut lumber packages for decks.

A listing of Kodiak dealers is available by calling 1-800-k-KODIAK.

World's population growing rapidly

Nearly three people are born every second, 219,000 every day. In 1960, the world's total population was 3 billion, by the end of the century it is expected to reach 6.12 billion.

The most compelling reason to be concerned about such rapid growth is the question of whether the world's resource base, and most especially food and water, are sustainable under such enormous population pressures.

Resource sustainability and a high standard of living are taken for granted in more affluent countries, but 95 percent of all population growth occurs in the poorest countries of the world. These are the very countries least able to withstand a doubling of their population in 20 to 30 years, with its myriad, ominous consequences: environmental degradation, urban deterioration, hunger and malnutrition, economic stagnation, forced migration and high child and maternal mortality.

Since 1950, developing world population has soared from 1.7 billion to more than 4.6 billion. By 2025, when world population is projected to reach 8.5 billion more than 7 billion people will live in the developing world.

Though absolute numbers of people continue to rise, a nightmare scenario for the world's demographic future is not inevitable. The most encouraging indication that the planet may yet avoid being overwhelmed by a tidal wave or humanity is that since the early 1960s, average fertility has actually declined in the developing world-from six children per woman to three.

It is hardly coincidental that some 30-35 years ago the world began to direct serious attention toward rapid demographics growth in its poorest regions. The United Nations Population fund, The Office of Population in the U.S. Agency for International Development, as well as many multilateral, bilateral and private, non-governmental programs were launched during this period to provide population assistance to the developing world.

Unless rapid population growth in the poorest countries of the world is considerably slowed down, few, if any, of the world's highest priorities-to reduce poverty, hunger, disease, unemployment, illiteracy and massive migration-can be realized.

Your home: Q & A

Our wood fence is rotting. What type of wood should we replace the fence with?

Crumbling foundations. Mushy windowsills. Falling fence posts. For years, homeowners were doomed to replace rotted wood.

But the battle may finally be over. Some manufacturers now guarantee — not merely claim — that their pressure-treated wood products will withstand termites and decay for life.

The Source of the Problem

The basic problem? Wood rots. The source of this destruction? Fungus. Not just one type of fungus, either. There's an entire army of fungus species that thrives on wood. They eat the wood and cause the fiber to dissolve.

But fungi cannot infest wood everywhere. They need air, water and a 50-to-90-degree temperature range to thrive. Otherwise, they lie dormant or die.

Wood for foundation and outdoor use is a prime candidate for rot when it gets wet and doesn't have a chance to dry out.

Wood Types, Sections

The idea of preserving wood with chemicals began with the natural defenses of rot-resistant wood, notably redwood and cedar. The darker colored heartwood of these trees contains chemicals toxic to most fungus species. The lighter colored sapwood, toward the outside of the tree, is no more resistant than other woods.

Preserving Wood

Currently, there are three types of chemicals commonly used for preserving wood: pentachlorophenol (called penta), creosote and chromated copper arsenate (CCA). All are applied commercially only and are not available to homeowners. Penta and creosote are used mainly in industrial applications. Most of the treated lumber a homeowner can buy is treated with CCA (or a similar chemical), which can be identified by the distinctively greenish color of the wood. CCA is dissolved in water and forced deep into the wood under pressure. It bonds with the wood fibers as the wood dries. After that, it won't leach out and protects the wood indefinitely.

The quality of treated wood varies, depending on the species of tree and on how deeply the preservative penetrates. To be effective the preservative should penetrate at least 21/2 inches into the wood. If you cut through a 2-by-4, the greenish tint should show throughout, although it will become lighter toward the center. An AWPA (American Wood Preservers Association) stamp or tag on the lumber is a sign of quality control. A lifetime guarantee tag is another good quality indicator.

Also, note that brushing on a preservative, or soaking or dipping a piece of wood in a preservative, is not as good as pressure treatment. With repeated wetting and drying, such surface-treated wood develops deep cracks, exposing untreated areas where fungus can grow.

Like any other wood, pressure-treated wood will warp, crack and swell from exposure to moisture. But once it's dry, most treated wood can be stained, painted or treated with water repellent to protect it from the elements and keep it stable.

Caution

The preservatives in treated wood can be harmful and should be treated with respect.

Don't use pressure-treated wood where human or animal food can be exposed to it, such as for countertops, cutting boards and pet dishes. Wash any parts of your skin that come in contact with pressure-treated wood.

Don't use it indoors or where there might be frequent skin contact with it unless it's sealed with at least two coats of polyurethane, epoxy or shellac. For more details, read the consumer information pamphlets available wherever treated wood is sold.

Also, wear a dust mask to avoid inhaling sawdust when cutting treated wood. Don't burn the sawdust or scrap pieces; chemicals in the smoke can be inhaled. Dispose of the scraps in your ordinary trash collection or bury it.

Regal contemporary home

Luxurious. Spacious. Luminous even. These words don't even begin to describe the attractions of the Argent, a rambling contemporary home boasting more that 3,000 square feet of living space. Its regal porte-cochere entrance is designed to extend out over a driveway.

Two lofty doors swing open in to a 13-foot high foyer. Straight ahead, two sets of columns frame the entrance to a living room with a wide-hearthed fireplace. Den and dining room are to the left and right. All three of these rooms also have 13-foot ceilings, and windows fill most of their exterior walls.

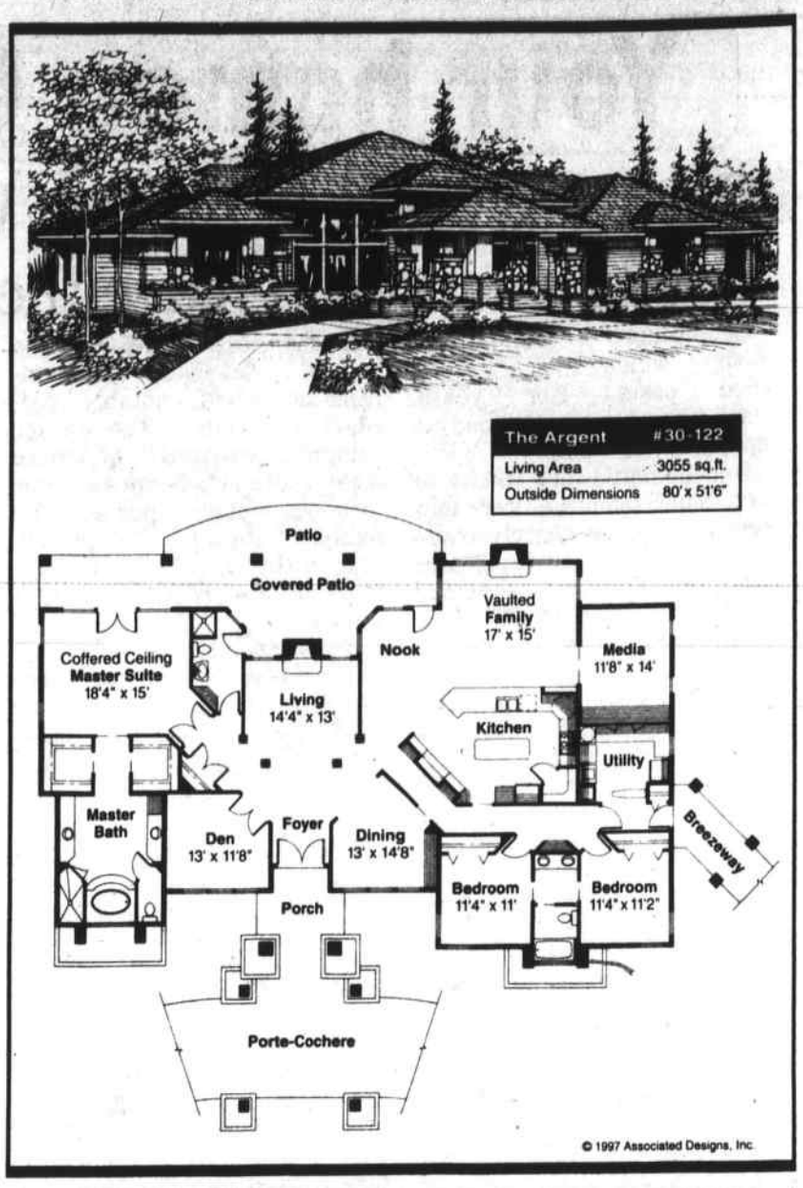

Well-buffered from the family living areas, the sumptuous master suite serves as a quiet adult retreat. Luxury amenities here include a 10-foot coffered ceiling, two large walk-in closets, and a skylit master bath with twin vanities, oversized shower, private toilet, and elevated soaking tub. Double doors at the rear open onto a columned covered patio.

Everyday life centers on the skylit kitchen and vaulted family room. A long eating counter provides partial separation and a fireplace adds cheer and warmth when skies turn dark. Other kitchen amenities include: a huge work island, walk-in pantry, built-in desk, and a plant shelf over the eating bar.

A nook with built-in booth nestles into a sunny corner overlooking the Argent's patio, and a media room with an entertainment center is to the right. Utilities are close to both the kitchen and the secondary bedrooms, which share a two-section bathroom.

It's Hand Tool Safety Month

The Hand Tools Institute has designated the month of May as "National Hand Tool Safety Month." Richard C. Byrne, Executive Director, says that the misuse of hand tools contributes to over 76,000 hand tool related injuries each year requiring emergency hospital treatment.

Among the safety rules to be emphasized during the national campaign are:

Always wear safety goggles when using hand tools.

Plastic covered pliers handles are for comfort only, not for protection from electrical current.

Never use screwdrivers for any other purpose than tightening or loosening fasteners.

Claw hammers are for driving and removing finishing and common nails, not masonry nails or striking other tools.

Posters, booklets, films and charts are available from the Institute's Headquarters in Tarrytown,New York.
